Plane Crash Kills 3; Father, Son and Pilot

Putnam Valley, Oct. 6 (AP)—A small chartered plane crashed and burned near here yesterday, killing a father and son and the pilot.

Police identified the victims as George Borden, 41, and his son, George Jr., 17, of 103 North Pine street, Rome, and Alvin Croneiser, 29, of Port Leyden, the pilot.

The scene of the crash on Granite mountain is heavily wooded. A group which recovered the bodies had to fight through a brush fire set by the burning wreckage of the plane.

Several Putnam county residents had reported seeing a wing fall off a burning plane which crashed.

Authorities said the Bordens, who had attended a dog show at Washington, D. C., chartered the plane there and were supposed to fly home to Rome. It was reported that the pilot usually operated out of Canastota airport.

Indians Say UN Forces Responsible

Top Officer Won't Use Troops to Halt Attack by South Koreans on Neutral Zone

Panmunjom, Oct. 6 (AP)—The senior Indian officer in Korea said today that the Indian troops would not attempt to halt a mass breakout of anti-Communist war prisoners because of the "terrible slaughter" that would follow.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya made the statement at a news conference even as thousands jammed streets in the South Korean capital of Seoul in a demonstration against Indians guarding POWs who have refused to go home.

It also came amid renewed threats by South Korean leaders to drive out the Indians—who they denounce as pro-Communist.

Thimayya said "we are not concerned if South Korea threatens us because we have the huge UN command" and Communist forces "at our disposal."

Declares UN Responsible

He said the UN command was responsible for preventing South Korean troops from entering the neutral zone to attack Indian forces.

Government sources in New Delhi, the Indian capital, echoed Thimayya's statement that the allies would be responsible for halting any South Korean attack.

"It is the responsibility of both the Communist and UN commands to enable the (Korean repatriation) commission to fulfill its duties," the source said.

"So if there is any threat, it is for the command concerned—in this case the United Nations—to stop it."

Thimayya did not comment on a letter sent to him today by Gen. Mark W. Clark in which the retiring Far East commander said the United Nations will not waiver from the principle of freedom of choice for the 23,000 anti-Communist prisoners in Indian custody.

No Compromise

Clark said the UN had shed blood to win that right and will not compromise.

Clark, who turns over his command Wednesday to Gen. John E. Hull, accused the five nation repatriation commission—of which India is chairman—of working on the false idea that the reluctant prisoners "actually desire repatriation."

Thimayya said it was "highly likely" that the long-delayed interviewing of the balky POWs would begin next Tuesday.

Allied and Communist teams were to begin meeting Sept. 26 with the prisoners in an attempt to persuade them to return home. But a dispute over facilities for the interviews forced postponement.

Thimayya said the "explanations" could begin as soon as the UN Comamnd finishes temporary interview booths demanded by the Communists. The UNC said the job would take about seven days.

Thimayya answered dozens of questions fired by both allied and Communist newsmen in a one hour, 40-minute news conference at his headquarters in the demilitarized zone near Panmunjom.

Answers Flat No

Asked if the 5,500 Indian troops guarding the POWs would try to quell a mass escape attempt, Thimayya answered with a flat "ni."

He added he was confident the crack Indian troops could halt a breakout, but commented:

"I do not think we would try to check a mass breakout because of the terrible slaughter, which no civilized nation could perpetrate."

Thimayya said Indian forces

Knowland Assails Non-Aggression, Indian Yielding

Senator Says He Speaks for Himself; Says Soviet Must Grant Free Elections

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) let fly yesterday with a double-barreled blast against the kind of non-aggression pact with Russia proposed by Adlai E. Stevenson and against what he termed yielding by India to some Red China policies.

Knowland is Republican floor leader in the Senate, but he maintained he was speaking for himself, not as a member of the Eisenhower administration. There was no White House comment, but Sen. Theodore F. Green (D.-R.I.) said: "I hope he is not reflecting White House views. Does he think we can fight the whole world alone?"

Fresh from weekend conferences with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, Knowland told a news conference he would oppose any pact guaranteeing Russia's borders unless the Soviets agreed in advance to free elections in their satellite nations.

Spanks Nehru

Knowland verbally spanked Prime Minister Nehru of India. He said Nehru speaks for only a part of Asia, and that if Nehru's voice was paramount the ultimate communization of Asia would be in prospect.

Knowland, just returned from a world tour, accused India of "yielding to the policies of the Chinese Communists before there is any peace conference in Korea" and "handicapping the peace as they handicapped the war."

The Californian struck out directly at a proposal by Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, that the United States offer Russia a system of non-aggression guarantees in a move to force a showdown with the Soviets in the cold war.

Stevenson said after a White House conference last Thursday that Eisenhower was weighing the suggestion.

Sen. Green, like Knowland a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the Republican leader "sounds like the small boy watching a parade who said "everybody's out of step but my papa.' "

No White House Views

"I hope he is not reflecting White House views," Green said. "Can't we get on with anyone? Does he think we can fight the whole world alone? It's unfortunate he has to put these views on record at such a critical time as

Nassau Man Loses Job as Consultant

Admits He Owns 8,000 Shares in Trotting Association; Feinberg Son-in-Law

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Nassau county's labor consultant has lost his job after admitting he owns 8,000 shares of stock in the Nassau Trotting Association.

The first political casualty of the widening probes of the state's harness race tracks is Irving T. Bergman, a lawyer. He is the son-in-law of Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the State Public Service Commission and former Republican majority leader in the state Senate.

Bergman was up for reappointment yesterday with a salary raise from $5,500 to $7,500 a year, but his name was dropped from the list at a meeting of the Nassau County Board of Supervisors at Mineola.

County Executive A. Holly Patterson said in announcing the action that the board felt Bergman's interest in Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury "might possibly impair his service to the county."

Operates Raceway

The Nassau Trotting Association jointly operates Roosevelt Raceway with the old Country Trotting Association.

Bergman, who had been serving the county as special counsel in labor matters, is chairman of the Nassau-Suffolk Communters Committee Inc., the leading commuters organization in the two counties. In his county job, he mediated bus strikes and other disputes.

Labor affairs and other angles at Roosevelt Raceway are under investigation by the State Harness Racing Commission and by Nassau County District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta.

There have been reports that AFL union leaders extorted up to $345,000 a year from Roosevelt employes in a pay kickback racket. About 100 more present and former employes were questioned yesterday in Gulotta's inquiry. The prosecutor said he planned to question as many more today—making a total of about 500 questioned. There are 1,500 employes.

Yonkers Probe Opens

As Bergman lost his job following revelation of his Roosevelt stock interest, Westchester County District Attorney Samuel Faile formally opened his investigation of Yonkers Raceway which is indirectly linked to Roosevelt Raceway.

Atwood C. Wolf, Sr., vice president and executive secretary of Yonkers Raceway, was questioned for four hours yesterday as the first witness in the Yonkers probe. Wolf was closeted with Faile in the district attorney's office at White Plains. Wolf left by a side exit, thus avoiding newsmen.

Faile declined to say what he had learned from Wolf, but said he had a "sworn statement" from him.

On the statewide investigation front, the Harness Racing Commission held up until tomorrow the distribution of financial questionnaires to all eight harness race licensees in the state. The commission members said they wanted to examine the questionnaires, drafted by John T. Cahill and Jerome Doyle, appointed as special counsel to the commission by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The trotting associations, given a week to fill in the questionnaires, are threatened with loss of their licenses for next year if they do not comply.

Request Sent Out

In a separate move, the commission's special counsel were sending out a request for "beneficial ownership" affidavits from the 4 or 5 stockholders of the Batavia Raceway to bring that track in upstate New York into line with the provisions already laid down for Yonkers. Doyle explained "beneficial ownership" meant that the holder of the stock held it for his own use and benefit and not as a trustee or agent for another person.

In the Yonkers investigation, Faile said his next witness would be Nathan Herzfeld, Manhattan lawyer. Herzfeld, who testified at closed hearings of the Harness Racing Commission, was a founder of the Algam Corp. and served as president for a time. Algam owns the physical property at Yonkers Raceway. The Old Country Trotting Association, which owns the Roosevelt Race-

Donovan Refuses Visitor List for Vice Czar Luciano

Won't Explain Why Fay Case Became Exception for Disclosure

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP)—The State Department of Correction has refused a newspaper's request for a list of persons who visited vice czar Charles (Lucky) Luciano in prison before his deportation in 1946.

Commissioner Edward J. Donovan told the Albany Knickerbocker News yesterday that information on Luciano's visitors was not public property. Donovan said he would not make public the names of persons who visited Luciano or any other prisoner.

Asked why an exception was made in the case of labor extortionist Joseph Fay, Donovan replied, "no comment."

The department released last Friday a list of more than 80 persons who had visited Fay at Sing Sing, including acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

Gov. Dewey commuted Luciano's sentence in 1946 to the 9½ years served and the racketeer was turned over to federal authorities for deportation to Italy. Luciano had been sentenced to a term of 30 to 50 years for forced prostitution.

At the time of the release, Dewey said it appeared Luciano had cooperated in the war effort. Later, an aide said it was customary for the state to get rid of "alien prisoners."

Senators Back Wicks

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP) — Gov. Dewey was confronted today with a Democratic demand that he call a special session of the Legislature to take up impeachment proceedings against Acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

Dewey, in New York, had no comment on the Democratic demand.

In the face of Democratic party demands for Wicks' resignation, five Republican state senators defended Wicks and 17 said they wanted more information or declined comment. Others among the 37 GOP solons were unavailable.

Toll Is Conducted

The New York Herald Tribune conducted a telephone poll of sentiment among Republican solons on this question:

"Since Sen. Wicks is acting lieutenant governor, and, as such, is in line for succession to the governorship, do you think he should retain his post as majority leader and president pro tem in view of the recent disclosures concerning his visits to Joseph S. Fay?"

"What disclosures?" asked Sen. Stanley J. Bauer, Buffalo. "In my opinion Lt. Gov. Wicks has committed no crime. He is a great leader, statesman, legislator and an honest, decent citizen."

Broome Unit Votes Aside Resolution On Wicks Quitting

State Senator Says Dewey Tries Wicks Through Inference in Newspapers

Binghamton, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Republican-controlled Broome County Board of Supervisors yesterday tabled indefinitely a resolution calling for the resignation of Acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks because of his visits to Labor Extortionist Joseph Fay at Sing Sing prison.

The vote to shelve the resolution, which had been offered by Republican Supervisor Harry D. Prew of Binghamton, was 19-10.

The resolution proposed that Gov. Dewey be petitioned to demand the resignation of Wicks immediately. Wicks is Republican majority leader of the State Senate as well as acting lieutenant governor.

Supervisor F. Clyde Eggleston, chairman of the board, said: "Personally, I couldn't vote for it. It would be like petitioning a judge to sentence a man before trial."

Eighteen Republicans and one Democrat voted to table the resolution. Five Republicans and five Democrats voted "no."

Peterson Defends Wicks

Earlier, at his home in Odessa, State Sen. Dutton S. Peterson, Republican, said he "could see no reason at present why Wicks should resign.

"So far he has not been accused, to my knowledge, of any crime or wrongdoing," Peterson said.. "Until there is some such

Salvation Army Drive Is Begun

A drive to raise $8,000 to carry on the work of the Kingston Corps of the Salvation Army was opened officially Monday night with a dinner meeting of campaign workers at the George Washington School.

Frederic Snyder, Kingston lecturer, was the main speaker. He reviewed the work of the Salvation Army throughout the world, drawing upon his experiences in his travels for word illustrations.

Brigadier Emil Nelson, in charge of Salvation Army work in this area, gave specific examples of the work done here, and told the workers of a growing interest in the Army's program, and commented on the fact that new interest is being shown by the enlarged 25-member advisory board of local citizens. He predicted that the local corps will be able to go on to "newer and greater" things.

Brief greetings were brought to the workers by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and by the general chairman of the drive, Attorney S. James Matthews. District Attorney Howard C. St. John was toastmaster. Music was provided by the Salvation Army sextet.

Basic Issue Is Unsettled For Unions

No Mixed Gangs Noted at Piers—Additional Stoppages Might Grow From Fight

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Longshoremen went back to work on New York docks bright and early today in compliance with a court order halting their "no contract, no work" strike in east coast ports.

In hiring shapeups at several piers, several hundred members of both the International Longshoremen's Association which was recently evicted from AFL and members of a new rival AFL union reported for duty speedily and without incident.

There were no mixed work gangs, however, for the rival unions control workers at different piers. The court order issued last night, enjoining further strike activity for 10 days under Taft-Hartley Law provisions, left unsettled the basic jurisdiction dispute between the ILA and the new AFL organization. There have been indications of further work stoppages in the inter-union struggle.

Handle Baggage, Supplies

At two piers 11 gangs of longshoremen got busy handling baggage and supplies for the liners Andrea Doria, scheduled to sail at noon, and the Constitution, departing tonight.

At a third pier the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm was snugged into her berth, the first passenger vessel to dock since issuance of the court order.

Earlier in the day tug boat crews who had struck in sympathy with the ILA work stoppage had reported for duty and started moving in ships which had been forced to anchor in the harbor during the five-day tieup which cost an estimated 7½ million dollars in New York.

Even as President Eisenhower's first use of Taft-Hartley brought at least a temporary truce in the ILA's wage-contract dispute with employers, there were reports that the New York stoppages might result from the ILA's fight with the AFL for control of waterfront labor. Large numbers of longshoremen have left the ILA in bolts which split some locals in two.

Leads to Precautions

The rivalry between the ILA and AFL has led to extraordinary police precautions on the waterfront, where supremacy is often determined by brawn and brutality.

On the basis of a pessimistic report by a three-man fact-finding board which met in New York over the weekend, Eisenhower yesterday ordered the Justice Department to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Warren Burger immediately flew to New York with a petition ready for Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld.

The judge last night ordered a 10-day halt in the strike to prevent "immediate and irreparable injury" to the national welfare. Weinfeld set next Thursday for a formal hearing, at which he is expected to extend his order to the full 80-day period, expiring Christmas Eve, permitted under Taft-Hartley.

Served on Connolly

Weinfeld's order quickly was served on Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice president. Connolly then directed the return to work by an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 ILA dockers from Portland, Maine, to Hampton Roads, Va.

The ILA's strike was a direct consequence of the failure of the union and the New York Shipping Association, representing 170 shipping and stevedoring companies, to reach an agreement on a new contract. The two sides split on a wage boost—the ILA asking a wage-welfare package of 13 cents an hour, the employers offering an 8½ cents package. The present basic rate is $2.27 an hour.

However, the dispute was complicated by a number of other factors, generally revolving around the waterfront corruption and racketeering exposed in state and federal probes over the past few years.

Eisenhower Calls on Nation To Provide 'Durable' Peace

Declares Firm and Just Pact Needed to Avoid World Terror and Death

Atlantic City, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower summoned his countrymen today to strive faithfully for "a firm and just and durable peace" lest the world slip into its other alternative—"terror and death" through H-bomb warfare.

And, while the path to peace is followed "slowly and tortuously," he said, "we and our friends in the free world must build, maintain and pay for a military might assuring us reasonable safety from attack."

Addresses Churchwomen

Eisenhower addressed a churchwomen's assembly and, in broad outline, sketched the world situation as he sees it and the course to be followed if the world is to avert the threat of "sudden and mass destruction, erasure of cities, windrows of unidentified dead, the possible doom of every nation and society."

On the one hand, he said, Russia—the mysteries of the atom known to her—is increasing its stockpiles of destructive weapons "compelled by its purpose of world domination."

On the other hand, the free world, with "unbreakable will to preserve its freedom and security," is "forced to concentrate on building such stores of armaments as can deter any attack. . . ."

Must Be Persistent

"In this situation, you and I—every person of faith everywhere—must with persistence work towards that enlightenment of the world's peoples which alone can show us the way to lasting and full peace."

The President said a just and durable peace could not be achieved "suddenly by force, by edit, or by treaty" nor yet be won by "dark threats or glittering slogans."

Along with maintaining the military might for reasonable security, he named these as among "the grand labors" to be performed for peace:

"We must seek to know and

Dulles Says Pact With Reds Talked

Might Give Assurances Against Revival of German Moves

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States is discussing with Britain, France and West Germany the possibility of giving Russia assurance against revival of German aggression.

Dulles also told a news conference that the United States, in its search for solutions to east-west conflicts in the atomic age, would be glad to give Russia assurance that it would not use either Korea or Austria for aggressive purposes.

Not Encouraging

In response to other questions Dulles told reporters that recent evidences of the Kremlin attitude toward getting along with the rest of the world have not been encouraging.

He cited in this respect Russia's negative response to western proposals for an Oct. 15 meeting on Germany and Austria, as well as Red China's refusal to reply to American proposals for setting up Korean political conferences.

With respect to inquires about the possibility of so-called "top level talks" involving President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill and eventually Soviet Premier Malenkov, as well as French Premier Laniel, Dulles said he was not aware of any developments. London reports have indicated Churchill, back from a long rest, was renewing big four moves.

Judge Refers Hubell Case to Grand Jury

New York, Oct. 6 (Special)—A charge of violating the Sullivan Law pending in Felony Court here against Sidney Hubell, 38, of Ulster Park, was referred today by Magistrate James A. Martinis to the New York County Grand Jury for action.

Hubell, who, police say, has been arrested on six prior occasions and is wanted in Kingston for fraud, was continued held without bail.

He was arrested on West 42nd street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, New York, on September 28 and accused of having a .22 caliber Colt revolver in his pocket without having a permit to carry it.

Roundup Is Announced

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced a roundup of six additional officials of the Communist party. The arrests were made by FBI agents in Cleveland, Lorain and Steubenville, Ohio, and Newark, N. J. In addition, the announcement said a detainer had been placed against another party functionary now serving time in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus for fictitious car registration. All of those involved were described as now holding or having held positions in the Communist party apparatus in the midwest.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The position of the treasury Oct. 2: Cash balance, $7,111,933,730.80; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $14,071,571,912.09; budget expenditures fiscal year, $18,953,540,038.77; budget deficit, $4,881,968,126.68; total debt, $272,997,514,741.94; gold assets, $22,128,283,419.34.

Congressmen Asks Use of 'Common Sense' In Military Goods Procurement, Disposal

Camp Drum, Oct. 6 (AP)—Testimony that batteries originally valued at $27,000 were buried in an army dump here has prompted a congressman's plea for "common sense in procurement and disposal of military property."

Capt. Manuel S. Pina, post surplus property officer, told the House Military Affairs subcommittee yesterday that the dry cell batteries were "unserviceable."

"I felt putting up $27,000 worth of unserviceable batteries for sale would not be worth the paper work," the officer explained when asked why they had not been advertised.

Other witnesses told of a $24,000 ammonia refrigeration plant that was sold as surplus for $1,369.

Rep. R. Walter Riehlman, subcommittee chairman, commented at the close of the one-day hearing on surplus property sales at Camp Drum that he hoped "the day will arrive when we can use some common sense in procurement and disposal of military property."

The Tully Republican declined to make any statement on the committee findings until members of the group who could not attend the session has time to study the testimony of 17 witnesses.

Riehlman criticized "military red tape", which he said made it almost impossible to transfer useful equipment from one unit to another. He pledged his committee would make every effort to "see that regulations are changed to correct some of these evils."

Riehlman observed that "we did not expect to find billions of dollars of waste up here, but it is these small amounts that add up to millions of dollars of waste in taxpayers' money and cause unfavorable publicity for the army."

The hearing stemmed from a telegram sent by Rep. John Taber, Auburn Republican, to Army Secretary Robert Stevens, in which he said he had read in a newspaper of a "major scandal sale of army property at Camp Drum."

Col. John R. Bedell, commanding officer at Drum, has said equipment originally valued at about $200,000 was sold for $22,000 as the army moved to put the post on a stand-by basis by Oct. 15. He said most of the supplies were "junk and obsolete."

Riehlman observed that fault could be found with policy permitting acquisition of such equipment as the refrigeration plant without assurance it would be used.

Part of the testimony concerned disposition of 636 old army vehicles. Witnesses indicated that 493 had been returned to First Army for use at other camps.

The subcommittee was told that 13 trucks, from 9 to 13 years old, had been sold for an average price of 8 per cent of their $3,185 replacement value. Riehlman said he thought this was a very good figure.

Riehlman's group is engaged in what a spokesman has described as a "routine" tour of military installations to gather information on disposal methods. The members planned to fly to Warner-Robbins Air Force Base at Macon, Georgia, today.

No Contact With Kidnapers, Greenlease Friend Reports

Kansas City, Oct. 6 (AP)—In a voice strained with emotion, a spokesman for the wealthy parents of Bobby Greenlease today said there had been absolutely no contact with the kidnapers of the 6-year-old boy.

Stewart Johnson, close friend of the family, appeared at the door shortly before 11 a. m. (C.S.T.) of the hugh Greenlease mansion and told newsmen:

"There has been no contact with a go-between. There has been no nothing."

Johnson's eyes were filled with tears. His voice broke as he said:

"The door is open to have little Bobby return. Reports a contact had been made with the kidnapers are absolutely untrue."

It was the first time since yesterday morning that the family has said anything beyond "no comment."

Earlier in the day Paul Greenlease, an adopted son, said there had been no developments. At that time Greenlease appeared tired and worried.

A missing spokesman at the home had aroused speculation a break might come any time in the nine-day-old case.

The spokesman, Robert Ledterman, of Tulsa, hasn't been seen at the home of the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease, since early Sunday morning. Other associates of the family have met all queries about Ledterman, with the statement that he was resting and couldn't be disturbed.

Ledterman, because of his close ties with the family frequently has

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Nassau county's labor consultant has lost his job after admitting he owns 8,000 shares of stock in the Nassau Trotting Association.

The first political casualty of the widening probes of the state's harness race tracks is Irving T. Bergman, a lawyer. He is the son-in-law of Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the State Public Service Commission and former Republican majority leader in the state Senate.

Bergman was up for reappointment yesterday with a salary raise from $5,500 to $7,500 a year, but his name was dropped from the list at a meeting of the Nassau County Board of Supervisors at Mineola.

County Executive A. Holly Patterson said in announcing the action that the board felt Bergman's interest in Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury "might possibly impair his service to the county."

Operates Raceway

The Nassau Trotting Association jointly operates Roosevelt Raceway with the old Country Trotting Association.

Bergman, who had been serving the county as special counsel in labor matters, is chairman of the Nassau-Suffolk Communters Committee Inc., the leading communters organization in the two counties. In his county job, he mediated bus strikes and other disputes.

Labor affairs and other angles at Roosevelt Raceway are under investigation by the State Harness Racing Commission and by Nassau County District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta.

There have been reports that AFL union leaders extorted up to $345,000 a year from Roosevelt employes in a pay kickback racket. About 100 more present and former employes were questioned yesterday in Gulotta's inquiry. The prosecutor said he planned to question as many more today—making a total of about 500 questioned. There are 1,500 employes.

Yonkers Probe Opens

As Bergman lost his job following revelation of his Roosevelt stock interest, Westchester County District Attorney Samuel Faile formally opened his investigation of Yonkers Raceway which is indirectly linked to Roosevelt Raceway.

Atwood C. Wolf, Sr., vice president and executive secretary of Yonkers Raceway, was questioned for four hours yesterday as the first witness in the Yonkers probe. Wolf was closeted with Faile in the district attorney's office at White Plains. Wolf left by a side exit, thus avoiding newsmen.

Faile declined to say what he had learned from Wolf, but said he had a "sworn statement" from him.

On the statewide investigation front, the Harness Racing Commission held up until tomorrow the distribution of financial questionnaires to all eight harness race licensees in the state. The commission members said they wanted to examine the questionnaires, drafted by John T. Cahill and Jerome Doyle, appointed as special counsel to the commission by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The trotting associations, given a week to fill in the questionnaires, are threatened with loss of their licenses for next year if they do not comply.

Request Sent Out

In a separate move, the commission's special counsel were sending out a request for "beneficial ownership" affidavits from the 4 or 5 stockholders of the Batavia Raceway to bring that track in upstate New York into line with the provisions already laid down for Yonkers. Doyle explained "beneficial ownership" meant that the holder of the stock held it for his own use and benefit and not as a trustee or agent for another person.

In the Yonkers investigation, Faile said his next witness would be Nathan Herzfeld, Manhattan lawyer. Herzfeld, who testified at closed hearings of the Harness Racing Commission, was a founder of the Algam Corp. and served as president for a time. Algam owns the physical property at Yonkers Raceway. The Old Country Trotting Association, which owns the Roosevelt Race-

Broome Unit Votes Aside Resolution On Wicks Quitting

State Senator Says Dewey Tries Wicks Through Inference in Newspapers

Binghamton, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Republican-controlled Broome County Board of Supervisors yesterday tabled indefinitely a resolution calling for the resignation of Acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks because of his visits to Labor Extortionist Joseph Fay at Sing Sing prison.

The vote to shelve the resolution, which had been offered by Republican Supervisor Harry D. Prew of Binghamton, was 19-10.

The resolution proposed that Gov. Dewey be petitioned to demand the resignation of Wicks immediately. Wicks is Republican majority leader of the State Senate as well as acting lieutenant governor.

Supervisor F. Clyde Eggleston, chairman of the board, said: "Personally, I couldn't vote for it. It would be like petitioning a judge to sentence a man before trial."

Eighteen Republicans and one Democrat voted to table the resolution. Five Republicans and five Democrats voted "no."

Peterson Defends Wicks

Earlier, at his home in Odessa, State Sen. Dutton S. Peterson, Republican, said he "could see no reason at present why Wicks should resign.

"So far he has not been accused, to my knowledge, of any crime or wrongdoing," Peterson said. "Until there is some such

Won't Explain Why Fay Case Became Exception for Disclosure

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP)—The State Department of Correction has refused a newspaper's request for a list of persons who visited vice czar Charles (Lucky) Luciano in prison before his deportation in 1946.

Commissioner Edward J. Donovan told the Albany Knickerbocker News yesterday that information on Luciano's visitors was not public property. Donovan said he would not make public the names of persons who visited Luciano or any other prisoner.

Asked why an exception was made in the case of labor extortionist Joseph Fay, Donovan replied, "no comment."

The department released last Friday a list of more than 80 persons who had visited Fay at Sing Sing, including acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

Gov. Dewey commuted Luciano's sentence in 1946 to the 9½ years served and the racketeer was turned over to federal authorities for deportation to Italy. Luciano had been sentenced to a term of 30 to 50 years for forced prostitution.

At the time of the release, Dewey said it appeared Luciano had cooperated in the war effort. Later, an aide said it was customary for the state to get rid of "alien prisoners."

Senators Back Wicks

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP) — Gov. Dewey was confronted today with a Democratic demand that he call a special session of the Legislature to take up impeachment proceedings against Acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks.

Dewey, in New York, had no comment on the Democratic demand.

In the face of Democratic party demands for Wicks' resignation, five Republican state senators defended Wicks and 17 said they wanted more information or declined comment. Others among the 37 GOP solons were unavailable.

Toll Is Conducted

The New York Herald Tribune conducted a telephone poll of sentiment among Republican solons on this question:

"Since Sen. Wicks is acting lieutenant governor, and, as such, is in line for succession to the governorship, do you think he should retain his post as majority leader and president pro tem in view of the recent disclosures concerning his visits to Joseph S. Fay?"

"What disclosures?" asked Sen. Stanley J. Bauer, Buffalo. "In my opinion Lt. Gov. Wicks has committed no crime. He is a great leader, statesman, legislator and an honest, decent citizen."

Basic Issue Is Unsettled For Unions

No Mixed Gangs Noted at Piers—Additional Stoppages Might Grow From Fight

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Longshoremen went back to work on New York docks bright and early today in compliance with a court order halting their "no contract, no work" strike in east coast ports.

In hiring shapeups at several piers, several hundred members of both the International Longshoremen's Association which was recently evicted from AFL and members of a new rival AFL union reported for duty speedily and without incident.

There were no mixed work gangs, however, for the rival unions control workers at different piers. The court order issued last night, enjoining further strike activity for 10 days under Taft-Hartley Law provisions, left unsettled the basic jurisdiction dispute between the ILA and the new AFL organization. There have been indications of further work stoppages in the inter-union struggle.

Handle Baggage, Supplies

At two piers 11 gangs of longshoremen got busy handling baggage and supplies for the liners Andrea Doria, scheduled to sail at noon, and the Constitution, departing tonight.

At a third pier the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm was snugged into her berth, the first passenger vessel to dock since issuance of the court order.

Earlier in the day tug boat crews who had struck in sympathy with the ILA work stoppage had reported for duty and started moving in ships which had been forced to anchor in the harbor during the five-day tieup which cost an estimated 7½ million dollars in New York.

Even as President Eisenhower's first use of Taft-Hartley brought at least a temporary truce in the ILA's wage-contract dispute with employers, there were reports that the New York stoppages might result from the ILA's fight with the AFL for control of waterfront labor. Large numbers of longshoremen have left the ILA in bolts which split some locals in two.

Leads to Precautions

The rivalry between the ILA and AFL has led to extraordinary police precautions on the waterfront, where supremacy is often determined by brawn and brutality.

On the basis of a pessimistic report by a three-man fact-finding board which met in New York over the weekend, Eisenhower yesterday ordered the Justice Department to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Warren Burger immediately flew to New York with a petition ready for Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld.

The judge last night ordered a 10-day halt in the strike to prevent "immediate and irreparable injury" to the national welfare. Weinfeld set next Thursday for a formal hearing, at which he is expected to extend his order to the full 80-day period, expiring Christmas Eve, permitted under Taft-Hartley.

Served on Connolly

Weinfeld's order quickly was served on Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice president. Connolly then directed the return to work by an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 ILA dockers from Portland, Maine, to Hampton Roads, Va.

The ILA's strike was a direct consequence of the failure of the union and the New York Shipping Association, representing 170 shipping and stevedoring companies, to reach an agreement on a new contract. The two sides split on a wage boost—the ILA asking a wage-welfare package of 13 cents an hour, the employers offering an 8½ cents package. The present basic rate is $2.27 an hour.

However, the dispute was complicated by a number of other factors, generally revolving around the waterfront corruption and racketeering exposed in state and federal probes over the past few years.

Eisenhower Calls on Nation To Provide 'Durable' Peace

Dulles Says Pact With Reds Talked

Might Give Assurances Against Revival of German Moves

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States is discussing with Britain, France and West Germany the possibility of giving Russia assurance against revival of German aggression.

Dulles also told a news conference that the United States, in its search for solutions to east-west conflicts in the atomic age, would be glad to give Russia assurance that it would not use either Korea or Austria for aggressive purposes.

Not Encouraging

In response to other questions Dulles told reporters that recent evidences of the Kremlin attitude toward getting along with the rest of the world have not been encouraging.

He cited in this respect Russia's negative response to western proposals for an Oct. 15 meeting on Germany and Austria, as well as Red China's refusal to reply to American proposals for setting up Korean political conferences.

With respect to inquires about the possibility of so-called "top level talks" involving President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill and eventually Soviet Premier Malenkov, as well as French Premier Laniel, Dulles said he was not aware of any developments. London reports have indicated Churchill, back from a long rest, was renewing big four moves.

Judge Refers Hubell Case to Grand Jury

New York, Oct. 6 (Special)—A charge of violating the Sullivan Law pending in Felony Court here against Sidney Hubell, 38, of Ulster Park, was referred today by Magistrate James A. Martinis to the New York County Grand Jury for action.

Hubell, who, police say, has been arrested on six prior occasions and is wanted in Kingston for fraud, was continued held without bail.

He was arrested on West 42nd street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, New York, on September 28 and accused of having a .22 caliber Colt revolver in his pocket without having a permit to carry it.

Roundup Is Announced

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced a roundup of six additional officials of the Communist party. The arrests were made by FBI agents in Cleveland, Lorain and Steubenville, Ohio, and Newark, N. J. In addition, the announcement said a detainer had been placed against another party functionary now serving time in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus for fictitious car registration. All of those involved were described as now holding or having held positions in the Communist party apparatus in the midwest.

Declares Firm and Just Pact Needed to Avoid World Terror and Death

Atlantic City, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower summoned his countrymen today to strive faithfully for "a firm and just and durable peace" lest the world slip into its other alternative—"terror and death" through H-bomb warfare.

And, while the path to peace is followed "slowly and tortuously," he said, "we and our friends in the free world must build, maintain and pay for a military might assuring us reasonable safety from attack."

Addresses Churchwomen

Eisenhower addressed a churchwomen's assembly and, in broad outline, sketched the world situation as he sees it and the course to be followed if the world is to avert the threat of "sudden and mass destruction, erasure of cities, windrows of unidentified dead, the possible doom of every nation and society."

On the one hand, he said, Russia—the mysteries of the atom known to her—is increasing its stockpiles of destructive weapons "compelled by its purpose of world domination."

On the other hand, the free world, with "unbreakable will to preserve its freedom and security," is "forced to concentrate on building such stores of armaments as can deter any attack. . . ."

Must Be Persistent

"In this situation, you and I—every person of faith everywhere—must with persistence work towards that enlightenment of the world's peoples which alone can show us the way to lasting and full peace."

The President said a just and durable peace could not be achieved "suddenly by force, by edit, or by treaty" nor yet be won by "dark threats or glittering slogans."

Along with maintaining the military might for reasonable security, he named these as among "the grand labors" to be performed for peace:

"We must seek to know and

Congressmen Asks Use of 'Common Sense' In Military Goods Procurement, Disposal

Camp Drum, Oct. 6 (AP)—Testimony that batteries originally valued at $27,000 were buried in an army dump here has prompted a congressman's plea for "common sense in procurement and disposal of military property."

Capt. Manuel S. Pina, post surplus property officer, told the House Military Affairs subcommittee yesterday that the dry cell batteries were "unserviceable."

"I felt putting up $27,000 worth of unserviceable batteries for sale would not be worth the paper work," the officer explained when asked why they had not been advertised.

Other witnesses told of a $24,000 ammonia refrigeration plant that was sold as surplus for $1,369.

Rep. R. Walter Riehlman, subcommittee chairman, commented at the close of the one-day hearing on surplus property sales at Camp Drum that he hoped "the day will arrive when we can use some common sense in procurement and disposal of military property."

The Tully Republican declined to make any statement on the committee findings until members of the group who could not attend the session has time to study the testimony of 17 witnesses.

Riehlman criticized "military red tape", which he said made it almost impossible to transfer useful equipment from one unit to another. He pledged his committee would make every effort to "see that regulations are changed to correct some of these evils."

Riehlman observed that "we did not expect to find billions of dollars of waste up here, but it is these small amounts that add up to millions of dollars of waste in taxpayers' money and cause unfavorable publicity for the army."

The hearing stemmed from a telegram sent by Rep. John Taber, Auburn Republican, to Army Secretary Robert Stevens, in which he said he had read in a newspaper of a "major scandal sale of army property at Camp Drum."

Col. John R. Bedell, commanding officer at Drum, has said equipment originally valued at about $200,000 was sold for $22,000 as the army moved to put the post on a stand-by basis by Oct. 15. He said most of the supplies were "junk and obsolete."

Riehlman observed that fault could be found with policy permitting acquisition of such equipment as the refrigeration plant without assurance it would be used.

Part of the testimony concerned disposition of 636 old army vehicles. Witnesses indicated that 493 had been returned to First Army for use at other camps.

The subcommittee was told that 13 trucks, from 9 to 13 years old, had been sold for an average price of 8 per cent of their $3,185 replacement value. Riehlman said he thought this was a very good figure.

Riehlman's group is engaged in what a spokesman has described as a "routine" tour of military installations to gather information on disposal methods. The members planned to fly to Warner-Robbins Air Force Base at Macon, Georgia, today.

Salvation Army Drive Is Begun

A drive to raise $8,000 to carry on the work of the Kingston Corps of the Salvation Army was opened officially Monday night with a dinner meeting of campaign workers at the George Washington School.

Frederic Snyder, Kingston lecturer, was the main speaker. He reviewed the work of the Salvation Army throughout the world, drawing upon his experiences in his travels for word illustrations.

Brigadier Emil Nelson, in charge of Salvation Army work in this area, gave specific examples of the work done here, and told the workers of a growing interest in the Army's program, and commented on the fact that new interest is being shown by the enlarged 25-member advisory board of local citizens. He predicted that the local corps will be able to go on to "newer and greater" things.

Brief greetings were brought to the workers by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and by the general chairman of the drive, Attorney S. James Matthews. District Attorney Howard C. St. John was toastmaster. Music was provided by the Salvation Army sextet.

No Contact With Kidnapers, Greenlease Friend Reports

Kansas City, Oct. 6 (AP)—In a voice strained with emotion, a spokesman for the wealthy parents of Bobby Greenlease today said there had been absolutely no contact with the kidnapers of the 6-year-old boy.

Stewart Johnson, close friend of the family, appeared at the door shortly before 11 a. m. (C.S.T.) of the hugh Greenlease mansion and told newsmen:

"There has been no contact with a go-between. There has been no nothing."

Johnson's eyes were filled with tears. His voice broke as he said:

"The door is open to have little Bobby return. Reports a contact had been made with the kidnapers are absolutely untrue."

It was the first time since yesterday morning that the family has said anything beyond "no comment."

Earlier in the day Paul Greenlease, an adopted son, said there had been no developments. At that time Greenlease appeared tired and worried.

A missing spokesman at the home had aroused speculation a break might come any time in the nine-day-old case.

The spokesman, Robert Ledterman, of Tulsa, hasn't been seen at the home of the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease, since early Sunday morning. Other associates of the family have met all queries about Ledterman, with the statement that he was resting and couldn't be disturbed.

Ledterman, because of his close ties with the family frequently has

Lester Mack, one of Wallkill's largest fruit growers, was a caller here recently. Lester and his wife have opened an antique shop in Wallkill.

Otto Rast who came here from New York after buying the William Shultis place nine years ago, observed his 79th birthday Oct. 5. Among his treasured possessions is a presidential citation for Red Cross ambulance work during World War 1.

Carrie Johnson, Ellenville resident and former Ashokan girl, spent several days last week at the home of her brother, Willie Brooks.

Ebba Andre of North Front street came up Saturday to inspect her newly completed bungalow adjoining the telephone central grounds. She has been a employe of the H. Leventhal store on Wall street for the past 11 years.

Edward Adsit who with his wife moved here last month, continues his employment in the Neversink area driving the round trip each week day.

Estimated value of the current apple crop in neighboring Greene county is $250,000 and the size, color and quality of the fruit is unusually good. Most of the growers ship to the Menands and New York markets and some of them rent cold storage in Germantown or Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon and three sons of Long Island spent the weekend with James' mother, Mrs. Virgil Gordon, and aunt, Susan Young. Callers at the Gordon home Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon and son together with Eva Burt, mother of Mrs. J. Gordon.

Re-Hearing Held On Rail Service To Mountain Area

Additional information was produced today by the New York Central Railroad relative to summer traffic on the Catskill Mountain Branch at a re-hearing held before Hearing Examiner A. H. Williamson on the application of the railroad to discontinue trains No. 527 and 528 between Kingston and Oneonta.

The Public Service Commission last May directed that the existing schedule be continued in relation to the two trains. At the previous hearings on the application for discontinuance of the two trains, figures were submitted to the commission on revenue from passenger, express, mail and baggage. The commission held that the testimony of the railroad was incomplete as to summer traffic and the present application is made to produce this additional testimony.

Feels Its Pertinent

Operating through a summer resort area the commission apparently feels that this information is pertinent to the question of discontinuance of the two trains. The question also arose as to whether the proposed truck service in the event of discontinuance of the two trains could handle the freight, express and less carload shipments now handled by the train service.

William R. Stevens appeared for the railroad; Mr. Ward as counsel for the Public Service Commission and John Larkin appeared on behalf of Lt. Governor Arthur H. Wicks who represents in the Senate much of the area through which the Catskill Mountain branch operates.

John Shultis appeared on behalf of the town of Roxbury.

Exhibits Offered

Numerous additional exhibits were offered by the petitioner to show the passenger traffic by months over a period from 1948 through the first part of 1953. The average number of passengers carried on train 527 between Kingston and Oneonta from January to September 1953 was 3.2 passenger. From Oneonta to Kingston the average number of passengers carried on train No. 528 was 2.74 passengers per day for January 1953.

Figures were submitted for each month of the period and indicated the average number of passengers carried per day fluctuated from 2.74 in January to 5.92 per day in August. The July average was slightly lower than in August.

Figures as to passenger revenue per train mile was also submitted. This revenue was about 2 cents per mile over a considerable period, including four months of 1953. In 1950 the average income from passenger service was $1.97 per trip.

Counts Submitted

On and off counts were also submitted indicaing the stations between which passengers rode.

William R. Main, research engineer for the New York Central Railroad, supplied figures on passenger traffic, including the period from January, 1953 to September 26, 1953. He testified his records showed there were no passengers carried on many days and the average passenger carried from January to September, 1953 on train No. 527 was 3.2 passengers. On the return trip the average was 2.74 passengers per day. He testified the cost of operating the two trains, with a crew of five men over the 104 mile line, was about $91,000 per year and in 1930 the income had been $31,346, a loss of over $59,000. In 1951 the revenue was $49,862 and the cost $91,000, a loss of $41,138. In 1952 the loss was $34,170.

Dates on which no passengers were carried during 1953 were offered. These figures disclosed that there were approximately 40 days when train No. 527 carried no passengers and train 528 operated without any passengers for a slightly less number of days.

Cost of Budd Car

The cost of operating a Budd car instead of the present train was gone into. It was stated the cost of a Budd car operation would be about $1.25 a mile while the present cost of operation was $1.40 per mile and it was problematical whether a Budd car could handle and retain the present mail, express, passenger and less carload shipments.

Passenger earnings for train No. 527 for May, June and July, the summer months period, were given as $96; $71 and $122, for per mile revenues of from about 3 cents to about 4 cents. Train No. 528 for May had a passenger revenue of $50; June $57 and July $98, an income from passengers of from about 2 cents to 3 cents per mile.

William R. Smith, assistant manager of mail and express, testified to mail and express income. He said the demand for mail space was about constant but the baggage hauled was slightly up in June and August. Express demand was about the same throughout the year. He said if the trains were discontinued it would be up to the Postal Transportation Service to decide on substitute service for mail.

Harry Ecker of Mt. Tremper, who carries the mail from Mt. Pleasant over a star route, made inquiry as to how the mail would be served in event of a discontinuance of the train service.

The cost of operating a Budd car was gone into to some extent but it was stated by railroad officials that no Budd car was available for the mountain division. The cost of operation of Budd cars and revenues derived from their operation is kept separate by the railroad which is making an extensive study of this operation.

A recess was taken at 12:30 until 1:45 o'clock.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Weakness in the aircrafts touched off a decline today in the stock market.

Active selling in the aircrafts took them down from fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Other sections of the market followed that pattern but with less emphasis.

The railroads stepped down after the aircrafts, and also lower were steels, oils, chemicals, and radio-televisions.

The motors resisted the selloff as did most utilities, air line, motion pictures and distillers.

Lower stocks included Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed (which opened on 2,200 shares off ⅞), Radio Corp., New York Central, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Pacific Land Trust, American Telephone, duPont, General Electric, and American Can.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly lower with trading moderate. Going down were Amurex Oil Development, Calgary & Edmonton, Imperial Oil, Louisiana Land, Pacific Petroleums Ltd., and Ryan Consolidated Petroleum. Higher were Coastal Caribbean Oils, Merritt, Chapman & Scott Warrants, and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U. S. government securities in the over the counter market were unchanged to higher.

In a 4 to 1 decision, the court upheld a lower court refusal to dismiss a demand to open the report to the public made by Mrs. Helen Cherkis of Brooklyn.

Re-Hearing Held On Rail Service To Mountain Area

Additional information was produced today by the New York Central Railroad relative to summer traffic on the Catskill Mountain Branch at a re-hearing held before Hearing Examiner A. H. Williamson on the application of the railroad to discontinue trains No. 527 and 528 between Kingston and Oneonta.

The Public Service Commission last May directed that the existing schedule be continued in relation to the two trains. At the previous hearings on the application for discontinuance of the two trains, figures were submitted to the commission on revenue from passenger, express, mail and baggage. The commission held that the testimony of the railroad was incomplete as to summer traffic and the present application is made to produce this additional testimony.

Feels Its Pertinent

Operating through a summer resort area the commission apparently feels that this information is pertinent to the question of discontinuance of the two trains. The question also arose as to whether the proposed truck service in the event of discontinuance of the two trains could handle the freight, express and less carload shipments now handled by the train service.

William R. Stevens appeared for the railroad; Mr. Ward as counsel for the Public Service Commission and John Larkin appeared on behalf of Lt. Governor Arthur H. Wicks who represents in the Senate much of the area through which the Catskill Mountain branch operates.

John Shultis appeared on behalf of the town of Roxbury.

Exhibits Offered

Numerous additional exhibits were offered by the petitioner to show the passenger traffic by months over a period from 1948 through the first part of 1953. The average number of passengers carried on train 527 between Kingston and Oneonta from January to September 1953 was 3.2 passenger. From Oneonta to Kingston the average number of passengers carried on train No. 528 was 2.74 passengers per day for January 1953.

Figures were submitted for each month of the period and indicated the average number of passengers carried per day fluctuated from 2.74 in January to 5.92 per day in August. The July average was slightly lower than in August.

Figures as to passenger revenue per train mile was also submitted. This revenue was about 2 cents per mile over a considerable period, including four months of 1953. In 1950 the average income from passenger service was $1.97 per trip.

Counts Submitted

On and off counts were also submitted indicaing the stations between which passengers rode.

William R. Main, research engineer for the New York Central Railroad, supplied figures on passenger traffic, including the period from January, 1953 to September 26, 1953. He testified his records showed there were no passengers carried on many days and the average passenger carried from January to September, 1953 on train No. 527 was 3.2 passengers. On the return trip the average was 2.74 passengers per day. He testified the cost of operating the two trains, with a crew of five men over the 104 mile line, was about $91,000 per year and in 1930 the income had been $31,346, a loss of over $59,000. In 1951 the revenue was $49,862 and the cost $91,000, a loss of $41,138. In 1952 the loss was $34,170.

Dates on which no passengers were carried during 1953 were offered. These figures disclosed that there were approximately 40 days when train No. 527 carried no passengers and train 528 operated without any passengers for a slightly less number of days.

Cost of Budd Car

The cost of operating a Budd car instead of the present train was gone into. It was stated the cost of a Budd car operation would be about $1.25 a mile while the present cost of operation was $1.40 per mile and it was problematical whether a Budd car could handle and retain the present mail, express, passenger and less carload shipments.

Passenger earnings for train No. 527 for May, June and July, the summer months period, were given as $96; $71 and $122, for per mile revenues of from about 3 cents to about 4 cents. Train No. 528 for May had a passenger revenue of $50; June $57 and July $98, an income from passengers of from about 2 cents to 3 cents per mile.

William R. Smith, assistant manager of mail and express, testified to mail and express income. He said the demand for mail space was about constant but the baggage hauled was slightly up in June and August. Express demand was about the same throughout the year. He said if the trains were discontinued it would be up to the Postal Transportation Service to decide on substitute service for mail.

Harry Ecker of Mt. Tremper, who carries the mail from Mt. Pleasant over a star route, made inquiry as to how the mail would be served in event of a discontinuance of the train service.

The cost of operating a Budd car was gone into to some extent but it was stated by railroad officials that no Budd car was available for the mountain division. The cost of operation of Budd cars and revenues derived from their operation is kept separate by the railroad which is making an extensive study of this operation.

A recess was taken at 12:30 until 1:45 o'clock.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Weakness in the aircrafts touched off a decline today in the stock market.

Active selling in the aircrafts took them down from fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Other sections of the market followed that pattern but with less emphasis.

The railroads stepped down after the aircrafts, and also lower were steels, oils, chemicals, and radio-televisions.

The motors resisted the selloff as did most utilities, air line, motion pictures and distillers.

Lower stocks included Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed (which opened on 2,200 shares off ⅜), Radio Corp., New York Central, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Pacific Land Trust, American Telephone, du-Pont, General Electric, and American Can.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly lower with trading moderate. Going down were Amurex Oil Development, Calgary & Edmonton, Imperial Oil, Louisiana Land, Pacific Petroleums Ltd., and Ryan Consolidated Petroleum. Higher were Coastal Caribbean Oils, Merritt, Chapman & Scott Warrants, and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

Corporate bonds were irregular. U. S. government securities in the over the counter market were unchanged to higher.

LAND MUST PRODUCE MORE

The population of the United States is increasing by 7,000 persons a day. By 1975, government experts forecast, we will have to be capable of feeding five people for every four who sat down at the table in 1950.

There are two ways this can be accomplished. One is to proportionately increase our croplands. The other is to make better use of the land we now have.

So far as the first of these solutions is concerned, it is estimated that, if our present standard of living is to be maintained through 1975, the huge total of 100,000,000 fertile acres will have to be brought into production. So far as anyone can see now, this is an impossible goal. At present we are bringing in only 2,000,000 acres a year, and more than half of this is being offset by the expansion of communities and industrial areas.

Therefore the population problem can be met only by producing much more food, feed and fiber from an acreage which will be but moderately increased.

That, luckily for America's future, can be done through the application of proven scientific production practices along with better land conservation and utilization. And here agriculture has a mighty ally in farm machinery. The machine is the key to making the land yield more—and, at the same time, preserving and improving that land for future generations.

The fellow who thinks he is too big to be corrected is usually too small to do the job himself.

HOW TO BE PRESIDENT

Martin Kainec, eleven-year-old boy from Warrensville Heights, Ohio, wants to be President of the United States when he grows up. Meditating upon his ambition while confined to a hospital with a head injury, he decided to get some sound advice on how to reach that goal. He addressed a letter to ex-President Herbert Hoover asking the former Chief Executive how to proceed.

Mr. Hoover answered the boy's letter with three rules:

1. "Just be a boy, getting all the constructive joy out of life."

2. "No one should win the presidency without honesty, sportsmanship, and consideration for others, together with religious faith."

3. "Be a man of education."

Some readers might take issue with the third rule, pointing out that several Presidents had little of what we would call formal education. Such readers, however, forget that education is learning and men like Lincoln who were denied the advantages of conventional education achieved their learning through their own efforts.

Perhaps the boy who received the advice from President Hoover will never be President. But the rules Mr. Hoover laid down for him are good rules and if he follows them he will be a good citizen and a good man.

Political opponents are men who can tell an audience the same things and make it sound like an argument.

UN SOLVES A PROBLEM

The section of New York where the United Nations buildings now stand was once a playspot for youngsters who lived in that part of town. When the UN moved in the youngsters lost their playground. A group of them decided to call on the secretary general and explain their grievance. As a result of their visit they now have a third of an acre of playing area equipped with swings, seesaws and other play equipment. A UN guard stands watch over the youngsters at play.

The United Nations is dedicated to working for world peace, to helping nations to live and settle their differences without resorting to war. It is good to know that a UN official could find time to sit and talk matters over with a group of youngsters who had a problem, and the wisdom to settle the situation peacefully. Any organization which demonstrates its respect for the rights of children has a good chance of helping the world to respect the rights and dignity of all mankind.

Some scientists in New York discussed the possibility of dyeing snow for the better utilization of solar energy. There was no report from the committee studying the problem of gilding lilies.

'These Days'

RELAPSE FROM POLITICS

There comes a time with all people when they weary of the incessant discussion of the same things, the same ideas, the same names. They find the yak-yak of politics deafening and no longer impressive. They refuse to be frightened by those who view with alarm; they are no longer overjoyed by those who see only a roseate prospect. They want to tend to their own little affairs which, if they are pleasant, add to the joy of living; if they are sad and tragic, are within the bosom of the family.

This seems to be such a time. There is less fighting anywhere on Earth than we have become accustomed to. The fear of losing sons is, for the moment, over. You look at the agenda of the General Assembly of the United Nations: it is the same as last year's and as the year before that. The same subjects. The same speeches.

So, we are still discussing the subject of the Korean truce. For 25 months it was discussed at Panmunjom; now it is being discussed at the United Nations; soon it might be discussed at some conference. Most people turn from the whole subject and wonder whether they might not just as well wait until something conclusive happens.

Who is right? The Mongols marched under the banners of Genghis Khan but they did not know that they were the pawns of history. They marched; they killed; they conquered; they died. They never knew why. But we are supposed to be literate, if not educated. We should be able to understand what we are about. We have a government of our own choice, responsible to us. We are in control of our own money, or we believe that we are. We vote at elections over high principles and great issues.

Yet, we are often mastered by the course of events and unless the pressure is too great upon us, we seek to escape the consequences of the pressures. We escape in pleasures; sometimes we even try to escape by ignorance—in an avoidance of the facts, in an acceptance of what we hope may be true, of what we desire should be true. We call that wishful thinking, but it is sometimes more serious than that. It is an instinctive reaction to what cannot be understood because much of it does not make sense.

A people, like the Americans, who have developed a great civilization by the use of common sense, find it hard to believe that what does not make sense is true. For instance, every American knows that the United States does not want to conquer any country on Earth; then why should Russia want to harm the United States? It sounds unbelievable.

And the same thing is true about most of the great issues that face our country. Why should the British or the French be antagonistic to us when we have done so much for them? Many Americans simply will not believe that it is true until something happens to excite them. But soon our people subside and turn to what is more pleasant to think and talk about. We are a cheerful people.

I do not wish to give the impression that any of this is right or wrong. Who really knows? Does everybody have to a politician or an expert or an authority? Some of us devote our lives to the study of these great subjects, and we know that no matter how much work we do to understand historic forces, there are so many factors that may escape us—and some of them are crucial.

Napoleon lost an empire because it rained. Today, we have meteorologists to tell us when it is going to rain, but the Germans miscalculated on the atom bomb. We got it first, although it looked as though they would beat us in that race. But we did not know—and therefore all calculations have been wrong—that little guys like the Rosenbergs had already stolen it from us. It is little things that none of us knows that often count most.

But there is a danger in this almost fatalistic attitude. The danger is that the pot of history is always boiling and those who are not vigilant in the defense of their civilization lose it. That has happened too often not to be wholly true.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NEWS FOR TRAVEL-SICKNESS VICTIMS

Some years ago, a young medical student, about to cross the ocean with a group of others, decided to take some tablets along that he used for indigestion. He was the only member of the group who didn't suffer with seasickness, though he had suffered on previous occasions. He realized then that the tablets contained a drug that had a quieting effect on the stomach and small intestine. A short time later, he discovered that when he wore a wide belt across his abdomen, he could remain free of "motion" sickness.

Many a holiday or pleasant outing is spoiled by actual motion sickness or the fear that motion sickness will occur.

As some of the most effective medicines to prevent motion sickness contain drugs that cause a depressing effect on mind and body, they must be prescribed by a physician. There is a new drug recently on the market which, while most effective in preventing motion sickness, does not require a physician's prescription. Prior to this ruling a traveler susceptible to motion sickness had to plan his trip well in advance and visit a doctor before he set forth." The ready availability of a quick-acting effective preventive for that green feeling in the stomach is, therefore, welcome news to tourists. The United States Food and Drug Administration has ruled that the preventive, a drug named Scopodex (likely after scopolamine) was so safe that it could be bought in the drugstore without a doctor's prescription. It is so harmless that it can be given to children.

Scientists at the United States School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas, have reported that it will prevent airsickness in 93 out of 100 cases. Navy researchers have praised its usefulness to sailors.

Unfortunately, some of the motion sickness remedies used too often contain drugs that "accumulate" in the system or are habit-forming. The fact that this remedy recommended by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration and by an Air Force school of aviation is harmless and does not require a doctor's prescription is reassuring.

I am passing this information on because "practically everyone, at one time or another, becomes seasick, carsick, trainsick, or airsick, and this drug makes for enjoyment at all times in every form of motion traveling."

Certainly this drug, available at your nearest drugstore without need of a prescription, will make any delays in plans at the last moment avoidable.

That's Right! People Surely Are Funny!

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — In its eager search for new tax sources, the Internal Revenue Service has turned a hard eye on the whole area of fringe benefits.

It's a complex, controversial subject. New legislation would probably be needed to make them an important new tax source. But it could be made to produce untapped millions for the U. S. Treasury, IRS officials believe.

There are a thousand-and-one examples of so-called fringe benefits.

Dining rooms for executives serve meals at prices below what it costs to buy and prepare the food. At the end of the year, an executive saves maybe a couple hundred dollars this way. Yet he pays no tax on this equivalent of extra income, although the company includes it as an expense for its tax purposes.

Transit company employes get free rides for themselves and their families. This is worth a couple hundred dollars a year.

Department store employes receive big discounts on their purchases at the store. Restaurant employes get free meals.

Those are some of the smaller items which come under the general category of fringe benefits as the IRS experts analyze it. Court cases and previous rulings have pretty well marked them as a factor in reportable income. And new laws could make them reportable income.

Wage-Earner Benefits Expanding

A relatively new and expanding field of other benefits going to just about every wage earner in the U. S. is what really interests IRS officials. Health insurance plans are an example.

A firm pays all or part of an employe's hospitalization and medical insurance. IRS sees it as a form of compensation. But it isn't reported as an employe's earned income, in most cases.

Another firm maintains elaborate medical facilities for its employes and their families. This form of free medical attention is worth a great deal to the employe. It's a real, tangible form of compensation, IRS officials point out. Yet it is not taxable and the company charges it off as an expense.

The cost is deductible by the firm and the recipient pays no tax on it.

Recreation facilities and low-cost cafeterias are two more examples of increasingly popular benefits companies are providing. Many firms are providing free or low-cost vacation facilities as a form of compensation, but not taxable under current regulations.

Executive vacations and recreation have also become an especially popular tax gimmick by large corporations. This gets into the whole area of just what are legitimate business expenses, which the IRS is also looking into very carefully with an eye on extra revenues. There have been widespread abuses of the business-expense deductions, it is felt.

Retirement Plans to be Studied

Also in the category of fringe benefits is the retirement plan. The problem of taxing retirement funds and payments is also very complex. But tougher interpretations and new laws could produce more revenues for the treasury, revenue service officials believe.

The previous tax exemption of most fringe items is one of the things which has made them an increasingly important question in union bargaining. Any fringe benefit a union wins for its members is enhanced by being tax free.

There's no official estimate of what the total value is of all-fringe benefits given to all employes per year. A rough guess places it near the billion-dollar category. If the average U. S. wage earner gets $20 a year worth of them, the total is more than $1.24 billion.

This at least makes it an interesting source of previously untaxed income, revenue service officials believe.

One of the problems of trying to tap this source is its cost of administration. It could be prohibitively high. Some way would have to be found to include it in the present pay-as-you-go system.

Certainly the idea would be fought by the unions and other groups.

Predictions Are Being Made by Some That Warren Will Reverse Civil Liberties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 6—Earl Warren, former governor of California, is now chief justice of the United States, which means—or ought to mean—that he is out of politics and out of the political arena where a count of the influences of pressure groups or a count of noses in a legislative body brings decisions on national policy.

Yet already predictions are coming from groups of wishful thinkers that the new member of the Supreme Court will vote to reverse the court's position on civil liberties and give a wider rein to the promoters of Communist imperialism inside America.

Too many people in America in the last 20 years, who talk about "flexibility" through judicial decision, have been indoctrinated with the notion that the Supreme Court of the United States is just another legislative body.

Too many people have been influenced by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to believe that it's too much trouble to amend the Constitution in the manner provided in the document itself and that the nine justices are endowed with a mandate to change the Constitution in accordance with the views of changing administrations or pressure groups.

If the American people really want to amend the Constitution and a substantial majority favors it, the process has proved in the past to be relatively rapid.

More harm has been done by the alleged witticism that "the Supreme Court follows the election returns" than by any other single fallacy about a lack of independence in the judiciary unless perhaps it is the frequent misuse of a quotation uttered once by Charles Evans Hughes and repeatedly taken out of context.

That quotation, distorted and misrepresented again and again, even by Franklin Roosevelt, was as follows: "The Constitution is what the judges say it is." It was never uttered by Mr. Hughes while he was on the bench but during an extemporaneous speech while he was governor of New York state. Placed in its proper context, the quotation merely meant that he felt it was the primary duty of the Supreme Court justices to interpret the Constitution and that they were too busy doing this to be required to decide public-utility cases of an administrative nature.

Mr. Hughes, when he was chief justice, bitterly resented the misuse of that quotation by Mr. Roosevelt and told this correspondent it was used out of context. Later on, in his diary notes—which Merlo J. Pusey, in his splendid biography of the chief justice, published in 1951 — Mr. Hughes wrote about that quotation as follows:

"The inference that I was picturing constitutional interpretation by the courts as a matter of judicial caprice . . . was farthest from my thought. I was not talking flippantly or in disrespect of the courts, but on the contrary with the most profound respect. I was speaking of the essential function of the courts under our system in interpreting and applying constitutional safeguards, and I was emphasizing the importance of maintaining the courts in the highest public esteem as our final judicial arbiters and the inadvisability of needlessly exposing them to criticism and disrespect by throwing upon them the burden of dealing with purely administrative questions."

A rereading of the text of his famous Elmira, N. Y., speech, reprinted in the Pusey biography, confirms the above exposition of Mr. Hughes' thought. But the words will doubtless be quoted again and again to support the thesis of a certain school of thought which mistakenly holds that after all there are nine votes on the Supreme Court and that decisions are made by reason of political predilections or ideological prejudices.

There may be some men who have been on the bench and decided questions that way, but the American people sincerely hope that Earl Warren will not be one of them and that he will be guided by his conscience and not by legislative or political impulses.

The Supreme Court again and again has said that it is not the duty of the court to revise existing laws or make new laws, that the remedy for bad laws is to be found at the ballot box and that the best way to amend the Constitution is by the means provided in the Constitution itself.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Just saw a copy of the Proceedings of the Ulster County Historical Society 1947-1953, an interesting book put out by this group of Ulster county. During Judge Hasbrouck's time I was a member as he was one of the first ones to encourage my interest in local history. One article by Richard Sanders Allen, of Round Lake, features Covered Bridges of Ulster County. He tells in a picturesque style how the early colonists had to contend with the many streams, creeks and rivers of Ulster county by building crude bridges of logs and planking, which usually were swept down the streams in the early Spring freshet. In time to come, when permanent settlements were made and good bridges needed at convenient places the covered wooden bridges came into vogue. The largest trees were selected for the timber and the best men for the jobs were chosen to build good substantial bridges. Allen mentions Theodore Burr (1771-1822) one of the early settlers of Oxford who patented the Burr Arch Truss in 1804, on a system of inclined posts and long wooden arches used for many of these wooden bridges. Ithiel Town (1784-1844) an architect of New Haven, Conn., in 1820, patented the Town Lattice Truss "a system which uses latticed planks held together with round wooden pins or "tree-nails." Royalties for this bridge patent brought Ithiel Town $1 a foot making him a rich man.

The covered bridge we all know is Perrine's Bridge over the Wallkill near Rifton which still stands, and said to be the only large covered bridge left in Ulster county, and the only "true Burr Arch Truss covered bridge still standing in New York State. The bridge takes its name from the Perrine family who once conducted an Inn near the eastern end of the bridge. Perrine's Bridge has a clear span of 138 feet and is recorded as being built in 1850." To those who are interested, this bridge may be approached by car but not used for auto traffic. The New York State Thruway will pass very close to the old Perrine Bridge and no doubt will receive much comment from those interested in such structures.

The author says he has a small collection of pictures of covered bridges, but none of the following, perhaps some of the readers could exchange with Allen with what they have. Allen needs: Covered bridges over Rondout Creek at Wawarsing Station; the one over Kerhonkson, over same creek, also over Port Jackson, Accord. Also one at Alligerville. The one west of High Falls over the Rondout Creek. The following three over the Esopus Creek, one at Hurley, one northwest of Kingston, and one at Lake Katrine. At Claryville-Ladelton, over the Neversink River, and one west of Mt. Marion over the Plattekill. Some time ago I received a list of genuine photo post cards of covered bridges, and various other historic structures from the Eastern Illustrating and Publishing Co., of Belfast, Me. The cards were only 15 cents each and they have one of Perrine's Bridge, Oldest Covered Bridge, Rifton, N. Y. They also make photo post cards on order from photographs.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Just what is a labor union, anyway, and what has gone wrong with us Americans, including our governors, mayors, police and our newspapers that we submit to murderous threats and actual attacks by groups of men acting in the name of unions?

A labor union is nothing more than a private organization, a group of eight or more persons, joined ostensibly for the purpose of negotiating with employers regarding wages, hours and working "conditions" such as hygiene in the shop. It is inherently selfish and predatory. As members of such a group these individuals enjoy no legal immunities from punishment for crime personally committed by them in union activity. They are responsible also for crimes committed in their names by other members or agents of the union. Even if an individual formally objects to such criminal acts before they are committed, he does not thus dissolve his culpability. To do that he must show that he positively quit the union or made a sincere effort to quit before the crimes were done.

This is the pure situation. Actually, as all of us know, a union as such is immune from prosecution and so are the individual members.

The morning papers of September 27 carried a remark attributed to Paul Hall, the secretary-treasurer of the Seamen's International Union, of the American Federation of Labor, as follows: "If we can swing a bat to help you, we'll swing it." He was actually threatening to knock the brains out of any American citizen who should try to maintain the integrity of an old, typical union of the AF of L, the International Longshoremen's Association. The ILA had been kicked out of the AF of L and a charter had been issued to a new union intended to absorb the members of the ILA.

Two days later, the New York police seized big armfuls of two-by-two sticks, about three feet long, and actually baseball bats, about 50 deadly weapons altogether. They were taken from a sound truck driven by a man described as Albert Thompson, a member of Hall's union. This seamen's union in New York carries on a regular sideline of professional thuggery. It has goons for hire to intimidate or beat up, presumably to kill, citizens who insist on pursuing their lawful way contrary to the intentions of Hall's clients. They may or may not be sailors.

In 1948 there was a riot in Wall Street. A group of organizers, trying to drive female clerks into an AF of L union, hired Hall's thugs to yell filthy remarks at them, push them around and attack any male citizens who might try to help them. These goons wore white caps, a sort of uniform for identification, just as Hitler's goons wore brown caps and shirts. Whereas Hitler's brown shirts carried dog whips to beat unoffending Jews on sight, Hall's men, in the present case, carried clubs and ball-bats to intimidate or beat up innocent American laborers.

About the time of the Wall Street riots, another gang of Hall's white caps waded into the garment area in Manhattan to scare non-union needleworkers into David Dubinsky's union, some of them who were arrested said they were paid "expenses" by Dubinsky's garment workers for this activity. They have never been brought to trial, but Al Scotti, of the district attorney's office, insists that the informations will not be dropped.

Dubinsky has an enormous treasury under his hand which he draws upon for mysterious political activities not only here but in many other countries in collusion with the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency. He commands great respect, even fear, among New York politicians, because he can throw an enormous power of money and propaganda into any election campaign. His preference is socialism. Scotti upbraided Dubinsky for hiring Hall's white caps to do his dirty work and accused him of double-crossing his own people by using his own chartered union of garment truckers to deliver work to the non-union garment shops. Dubinsky was not impressed.

You are now saying—there goes Pegler again. Dubinsky, Lovestone, Brown, the CIA and what a gullible fool Eisenhower is to have traffic with this sinister force!

But don't you see that this terrible evil all emanates from a virtuous original premise that the individual worker, by himself, is too weak to deal with a corporate

LAND MUST PRODUCE MORE

The population of the United States is increasing by 7,000 persons a day. By 1975, government experts forecast, we will have to be capable of feeding five people for every four who sat down at the table in 1950.

There are two ways this can be accomplished. One is to proportionately increase our croplands. The other is to make better use of the land we now have.

So far as the first of these solutions is concerned, it is estimated that, if our present standard of living is to be maintained through 1975, the huge total of 100,000,000 fertile acres will have to be brought into production. So far as anyone can see now, this is an impossible goal. At present we are bringing in only 2,000,000 acres a year, and more than half of this is being offset by the expansion of communities and industrial areas.

Therefore the population problem can be met only by producing much more food, feed and fiber from an acreage which will be but moderately increased.

That, luckily for America's future, can be done through the application of proven scientific production practices along with better land conservation and utilization. And here agriculture has a mighty ally in farm machinery. The machine is the key to making the land yield more—and, at the same time, preserving and improving that land for future generations.

The fellow who thinks he is too big to be corrected is usually too small to do the job himself.

HOW TO BE PRESIDENT

Martin Kainec, eleven-year-old boy from Warrensville Heights, Ohio, wants to be President of the United States when he grows up. Meditating upon his ambition while confined to a hospital with a head injury, he decided to get some sound advice on how to reach that goal. He addressed a letter to ex-President Herbert Hoover asking the former Chief Executive how to proceed.

Mr. Hoover answered the boy's letter with three rules:

1. "Just be a boy, getting all the constructive joy out of life."

2. "No one should win the presidency without honesty, sportsmanship, and consideration for others, together with religious faith."

3. "Be a man of education."

Some readers might take issue with the third rule, pointing out that several Presidents had little of what we would call formal education. Such readers, however, forget that education is learning and men like Lincoln who were denied the advantages of conventional education achieved their learning through their own efforts.

Perhaps the boy who received the advice from President Hoover will never be President. But the rules Mr. Hoover laid down for him are good rules and if he follows them he will be a good citizen and a good man.

Political opponents are men who can tell an audience the same things and make it sound like an argument.

UN SOLVES A PROBLEM

The section of New York where the United Nations buildings now stand was once a playspot for youngsters who lived in that part of town. When the UN moved in the youngsters lost their playground. A group of them decided to call on the secretary general and explain their grievance. As a result of their visit they now have a third of an acre of playing area equipped with swings, seesaws and other play equipment. A UN guard stands watch over the youngsters at play.

The United Nations is dedicated to working for world peace, to helping nations to live and settle their differences without resorting to war. It is good to know that a UN official could find time to sit and talk matters over with a group of youngsters who had a problem, and the wisdom to settle the situation peacefully. Any organization which demonstrates its respect for the rights of children has a good chance of helping the world to respect the rights and dignity of all mankind.

Some scientists in New York discussed the possibility of dyeing snow for the better utilization of solar energy. There was no report from the committee studying the problem of gilding lilies.

'These Days'

RELAPSE FROM POLITICS

There comes a time with all people when they weary of the incessant discussion of the same things, the same ideas, the same names. They find the yak-yak of politics deafening and no longer impressive. They refuse to be frightened by those who view with alarm; they are no longer overjoyed by those who see only a roseate prospect. They want to tend to their own little affairs which, if they are pleasant, add to the joy of living; if they are sad and tragic, are within the bosom of the family.

This seems to be such a time. There is less fighting anywhere on Earth than we have become accustomed to. The fear of losing sons is, for the moment, over. You look at the agenda of the General Assembly of the United Nations: it is the same as last year's and as the year before that. The same subjects. The same speeches.

So, we are still discussing the subject of the Korean truce. For 25 months it was discussed at Panmunjom; now it is being discussed at the United Nations; soon it might be discussed at some conference. Most people turn from the whole subject and wonder whether they might not just as well wait until something conclusive happens.

Who is right? The Mongols marched under the banners of Genghis Khan but they did not know that they were the pawns of history. They marched; they killed; they conquered; they died. They never knew why. But we are supposed to be literate, if not educated. We should be able to understand what we are about. We have a government of our own choice, responsible to us. We are in control of our own money, or we believe that we are. We vote at elections over high principles and great issues.

Yet, we are often mastered by the course of events and unless the pressure is too great upon us, we seek to escape the consequences of the pressures. We escape in pleasures; sometimes we even try to escape by ignorance—in an avoidance of the facts, in an acceptance of what we hope may be true, of what we desire should be true. We call that wishful thinking, but it is sometimes more serious than that. It is an instinctive reaction to what cannot be understood because much of it does not make sense.

A people, like the Americans, who have developed a great civilization by the use of common sense, find it hard to believe that what does not make sense is true. For instance, every American knows that the United States does not want to conquer any country on Earth; then why should Russia want to harm the United States? It sounds unbelievable.

And the same thing is true about most of the great issues that face our country. Why should the British or the French be antagonistic to us when we have done so much for them? Many Americans simply will not believe that it is true until something happens to excite them. But soon our people subside and turn to what is more pleasant to think and talk about. We are a cheerful people.

I do not wish to give the impression that any of this is right or wrong. Who really knows? Does everybody have to a politician or an expert or an authority? Some of us devote our lives to the study of these great subjects, and we know that no matter how much work we do to understand historic forces, there are so many factors that may escape us—and some of them are crucial.

Napoleon lost an empire because it rained. Today, we have meteorologists to tell us when it is going to rain, but the Germans miscalculated on the atom bomb. We got it first, although it looked as though they would beat us in that race. But we did not know—and therefore all calculations have been wrong—that little guys like the Rosenbergs had already stolen it from us. It is little things that none of us knows that often count most.

But there is a danger in this almost fatalistic attitude. The danger is that the pot of history is always boiling and those who are not vigilant in the defense of their civilization lose it. That has happened too often not to be wholly true.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NEWS FOR TRAVEL-SICKNESS VICTIMS

Some years ago, a young medical student, about to cross the ocean with a group of others, decided to take some tablets along that he used for indigestion. He was the only member of the group who didn't suffer with seasickness, though he had suffered on previous occasions. He realized then that the tablets contained a drug that had a quieting effect on the stomach and small intestine. A short time later, he discovered that when he wore a wide belt across his abdomen, he could remain free of "motion" sickness.

Many a holiday or pleasant outing is spoiled by actual motion sickness or the fear that motion sickness will occur.

As some of the most effective medicines to prevent motion sickness contain drugs that cause a depressing effect on mind and body, they must be prescribed by a physician. There is a new drug recently on the market which, while most effective in preventing motion sickness, does not require a physician's prescription. Prior to this ruling a traveler susceptible to motion sickness had to plan his trip well in advance and visit a doctor before he set forth." The ready availability of a quick-acting effective preventive for that green feeling in the stomach is, therefore, welcome news to tourists. The United States Food and Drug Administration has ruled that the preventive, a drug named Scopodex (likely after scopolamine) was so safe that it could be bought in the drugstore without a doctor's prescription. It is so harmless that it can be given to children.

Scientists at the United States School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas, have reported that it will prevent airsickness in 93 out of 100 cases. Navy researchers have praised its usefulness to sailors.

Unfortunately, some of the motion sickness remedies used too often contain drugs that "accumulate" in the system or are habit-forming. The fact that this remedy recommended by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration and by an Air Force school of aviation is harmless and does not require a doctor's prescription is reassuring.

I am passing this information on because "practically everyone, at one time or another, becomes seasick, carsick, trainsick, or airsick, and this drug makes for enjoyment at all times in every form of motion traveling."

Certainly this drug, available at your nearest drugstore without need of a prescription, will make any delays in plans at the last moment avoidable.

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — In its eager search for new tax sources, the Internal Revenue Service has turned a hard eye on the whole area of fringe benefits.

It's a complex, controversial subject. New legislation would probably be needed to make them an important new tax source. But it could be made to produce untapped millions for the U. S. Treasury, IRS officials believe.

There are a thousand-and-one examples of so-called fringe benefits.

Dining rooms for executives serve meals at prices below what it costs to buy and prepare the food. At the end of the year, an executive saves maybe a couple hundred dollars this way. Yet he pays no tax on this equivalent of extra income, although the company includes it as an expense for its tax purposes.

Transit company employes get free rides for themselves and their families. This is worth a couple hundred dollars a year.

Department store employes receive big discounts on their purchases at the store. Restaurant employes get free meals.

Those are some of the smaller items which come under the general category of fringe benefits as the IRS experts analyze it. Court cases and previous rulings have pretty well marked them as a factor in reportable income. And new laws could make them reportable income.

Wage-Earner Benefits Expanding

A relatively new and expanding field of other benefits going to just about every wage earner in the U. S. is what really interests IRS officials. Health insurance plans are an example.

A firm pays all or part of an employe's hospitalization and medical insurance. IRS sees it as a form of compensation. But it isn't reported as an employe's earned income, in most cases.

Another firm maintains elaborate medical facilities for its employes and their families. This form of free medical attention is worth a great deal to the employe. It's a real, tangible form of compensation, IRS officials point out. Yet it is not taxable and the company charges it off as an expense.

The cost is deductible by the firm and the recipient pays no tax on it.

Recreation facilities and low-cost cafeterias are two more examples of increasingly popular benefits companies are providing. Many firms are providing free or low-cost vacation facilities as a form of compensation, but not taxable under current regulations.

Executive vacations and recreation have also become an especially popular tax gimmick by large corporations. This gets into the whole area of just what are legitimate business expenses, which the IRS is also looking into very carefully with an eye on extra revenues. There have been widespread abuses of the business-expense deductions, it is felt.

Retirement Plans to be Studied

Also in the category of fringe benefits is the retirement plan. The problem of taxing retirement funds and payments is also very complex. But tougher interpretations and new laws could produce more revenues for the treasury, revenue service officials believe.

The previous tax exemption of most fringe items is one of the things which has made them an increasingly important question in union bargaining. Any fringe benefit a union wins for its members is enhanced by being tax free.

There's no official estimate of what the total value is of all-fringe benefits given to all employes per year. A rough guess places it near the billion-dollar category. If the average U. S. wage earner gets $20 a year worth of them, the total is more than $1.24 billion.

This at least makes it an interesting source of previously untaxed income, revenue service officials believe.

One of the problems of trying to tap this source is its cost of administration. It could be prohibitively high. Some way would have to be found to include it in the present pay-as-you-go system.

Certainly the idea would be fought by the unions and other groups.

Predictions Are Being Made by Some That Warren Will Reverse Civil Liberties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 6—Earl Warren, former governor of California, is now chief justice of the United States, which means—or ought to mean—that he is out of politics and out of the political arena where a count of the influences of pressure groups or a count of noses in a legislative body brings decisions on national policy.

Yet already predictions are coming from groups of wishful thinkers that the new member of the Supreme Court will vote to reverse the court's position on civil liberties and give a wider rein to the promoters of Communist imperialism inside America.

Too many people in America in the last 20 years, who talk about "flexibility" through judicial decision, have been indoctrinated with the notion that the Supreme Court of the United States is just another legislative body.

Too many people have been influenced by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to believe that it's too much trouble to amend the Constitution in the manner provided in the document itself and that the nine justices are endowed with a mandate to change the Constitution in accordance with the views of changing administrations or pressure groups.

If the American people really want to amend the Constitution and a substantial majority favors it, the process has proved in the past to be relatively rapid.

More harm has been done by the alleged witticism that "the Supreme Court follows the election returns" than by any other single fallacy about a lack of independence in the judiciary unless perhaps it is the frequent misuse of a quotation uttered once by Charles Evans Hughes and repeatedly taken out of context.

That quotation, distorted and misrepresented again and again, even by Franklin Roosevelt, was as follows: "The Constitution is what the judges say it is." It was never uttered by Mr. Hughes while he was on the bench but during an extemporaneous speech while he was governor of New York state. Placed in its proper context, the quotation merely meant that he felt it was the primary duty of the Supreme Court justices to interpret the Constitution and that they were too busy doing this to be required to decide public-utility cases of an administrative nature.

Mr. Hughes, when he was chief justice, bitterly resented the misuse of that quotation by Mr. Roosevelt and told this correspondent it was used out of context. Later on, in his diary notes—which Merlo J. Pusey, in his splendid biography of the chief justice, published in 1951 — Mr. Hughes wrote about that quotation as follows:

"The inference that I was picturing constitutional interpretation by the courts as a matter of judicial caprice . . . was farthest from my thought. I was not talking flippantly or in disrespect of the courts, but on the contrary with the most profound respect. I was speaking of the essential function of the courts under our system in interpreting and applying constitutional safeguards, and I was emphasizing the importance of maintaining the courts in the highest public esteem as our final judicial arbiters and the inadvisability of needlessly exposing them to criticism and disrespect by throwing upon them the burden of dealing with purely administrative questions."

A rereading of the text of his famous Elmira, N. Y., speech, reprinted in the Pusey biography, confirms the above exposition of Mr. Hughes' thought. But the words will doubtless be quoted again and again to support the thesis of a certain school of thought which mistakenly holds that after all there are nine votes on the Supreme Court and that decisions are made by reason of political predilections or ideological prejudices.

There may be some men who have been on the bench and decided questions that way, but the American people sincerely hope that Earl Warren will not be one of them and that he will be guided by his conscience and not by legislative or political impulses.

The Supreme Court again and again has said that it is not the duty of the court to revise existing laws or make new laws, that the remedy for bad laws is to be found at the ballot box and that the best way to amend the Constitution is by the means provided in the Constitution itself.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Just what is a labor union, anyway, and what has gone wrong with us Americans, including our governors, mayors, police and our newspapers that we submit to murderous threats and actual attacks by groups of men acting in the name of unions?

A labor union is nothing more than a private organization, a group of eight or more persons, joined ostensibly for the purpose of negotiating with employers regarding wages, hours and working "conditions" such as hygiene in the shop. It is inherently selfish and predatory. As members of such a group these individuals enjoy no legal immunities from punishment for crime personally committed by them in union activity. They are responsible also for crimes committed in their names by other members or agents of the union. Even if an individual formally objects to such criminal acts before they are committed, he does not thus dissolve his culpability. To do that he must show that he positively quit the union or made a sincere effort to quit before the crimes were done.

This is the pure situation. Actually, as all of us know, a union as such is immune from prosecution and so are the individual members.

The morning papers of September 27 carried a remark attributed to Paul Hall, the secretary-treasurer of the Seamen's International Union, of the American Federation of Labor, as follows: "If we can swing a bat to help you, we'll swing it." He was actually threatening to knock the brains out of any American citizen who should try to maintain the integrity of an old, typical union of the AF of L, the International Longshoremen's Association. The ILA had been kicked out of the AF of L and a charter had been issued to a new union intended to absorb the members of the ILA.

Two days later, the New York police seized big armfuls of two-by-two sticks, about three feet long, and actually baseball bats, about 50 deadly weapons altogether. They were taken from a sound truck driven by a man described as Albert Thompson, a member of Hall's union. This seamen's union in New York carries on a regular sideline of professional thuggery. It has goons for hire to intimidate or beat up, presumably to kill, citizens who insist on pursuing their lawful way contrary to the intentions of Hall's clients. They may or may not be sailors.

In 1948 there was a riot in Wall Street. A group of organizers, trying to drive female clerks into an AF of L union, hired Hall's thugs to yell filthy remarks at them, push them around and attack any male citizens who might try to help them. These goons wore white caps, a sort of uniform for identification, just as Hitler's goons wore brown caps and shirts. Whereas Hitler's brown shirts carried dog whips to beat unoffending Jews on sight, Hall's men, in the present case, carried clubs and ball-bats to intimidate or beat up innocent American laborers.

About the time of the Wall Street riots, another gang of Hall's white caps waded into the garment area in Manhattan to scare non-union needleworkers into David Dubinsky's union, some of them who were arrested said they were paid "expenses" by Dubinsky's garment workers for this activity. They have never been brought to trial, but Al Scotti, of the district attorney's office, insists that the informations will not be dropped.

Dubinsky has an enormous treasury under his hand which he draws upon for mysterious political activities not only here but in many other countries in collusion with the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency. He commands great respect, even fear, among New York politicians, because he can throw an enormous power of money and propaganda into any election campaign. His preference is socialism. Scotti upbraided Dubinsky for hiring Hall's white caps to do his dirty work and accused him of double-crossing his own people by using his own chartered union of garment truckers to deliver work to the non-union garment shops. Dubinsky was not impressed.

You are now saying—there goes Pegler again. Dubinsky, Lovestone, Brown, the CIA and what a gullible fool Eisenhower is to have traffic with this sinister force!

But don't you see that this terrible evil all emanates from a virtuous original premise that the individual worker, by himself, is too weak to deal with a corporate

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Legislature's new committee on election laws will hold a public hearing Oct. 19 on a plan to permit municipalities to establish permanent personal registration at their own option.

Another session would be scheduled for next month in Buffalo or Albany, Goddard said.

In approving a series of changes in the state's election laws last March, Gov. Dewey said the committee should draw up legislation to allow a municipality to adopt P.P.R. "at its own option."

Other members of the committee created by the 1953 Legislature are: Senators Henry Neddo, Whitehall Republican. Frank S. McCullough, Rye Republican, and Joseph R. Marro, Manhattan Democrat: Assemblymen Robert G. Main, Malone Republican, and Anthony J. Travia, Brooklyn.

P-TA Hears Move For PA System

Woodstock, Oct. 5 — A proposal was made by Mrs. Anthony DeLisio, president of the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association at the first meeting of the season Thursday night, that a public address system might possibly be installed at the elementary school. Mrs. DeLisio presented the proposition upon the suggestion of the fund raising committee, and after consultation with Walter Van Wagenen, school principal.

Van Wagenen reported in detail upon the cost of the installation of the PA system and outlined the advantages of such equipment to the school, among them , inter-communication between classrooms, the broadcast of special radio programs to the student body when it is impossible for them to meet in one room, and for the presentation of various recordings. A committee composed of Mr. Gandino, art teacher at the school, Mrs. A. A. Champanier and Mrs. Harry Dordick, was appointed to further investigate the uses of a PA system.

A second committee was also appointed to investigate other possible uses for present PTA funds. Members have been requested to present suggestions concerning the project to the following committee: Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. Sally Cantine and Mrs. William Stifler.

The faculty of the Woodstock elementary school, including the four new teachers, was introduced to the members by Van Wagenen. He also reported on plans being made for the Adult Education Program and requested that anyone interested make suggestions as to suitable nights and additional courses other than those already proposed.

Adolph Heckeroth, school trustee, reported on the building program and presented two types of plans now being considered.

7 Miles of Phone Cable Being Added To Shokan Service

A telephone construction project is underway that will provide seven additional miles of telephone cable west of Shokan, C. E. Burnett, New York Telephone Company manager, said today.

The new cable will allow customers in Boiceville, West Shokan and Davis Corners to have lines with fewer parties on them, he said. The project is scheduled for completion late this fall.

From the central office building on the north side of Route 28 in Shokan, the new cable line will follow the northern edge of Ashokan Reservoir to Boiceville, providing a second cable along the route. From there it will proceed south three miles to West Shokan, replacing the present cable.

The cable through the New York City Board of Water Supply pine plantation will be removed and the route discontinued. Instead, lines will be extended north to the Shokan central office from Olive Bridge and Davis Corners.

Can Stand Storms

Cable to be used is a development of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. Sheathed in alpeth, an aluminum product, it is lighter and stronger than previous cable. "Although it is no thicker than other cable, it is tougher and less likely to be damaged by storm," the manager said. "By using this cable, we can place telephone poles an average of 350 feet apart instead of the 150 feet formerly required.

"As a result fewer poles are needed. This means more speed in extending and improving lines in rural areas," he pointed out. "It is a good example of the way Bell Telephone System research has helped make rural telephone service more readily available so that today eight out of ten farms and other rural establishments have telephone service," he declared.

Cost Is $39,000

The project will total about $39,000. Burnett explained that the same project at pre-inflation prices would have come to only about $24,000. "It is part of our program to make telephone service continually more useful and valuable," he said.

There are 1,195 post offices in the province of Alberta, Canada.

Ever solder a wire?

Any home handy man knows the time it takes to make a wiring connection. Imagine making them by the millions! That's what must be done every time equipment for a new telephone office is built.

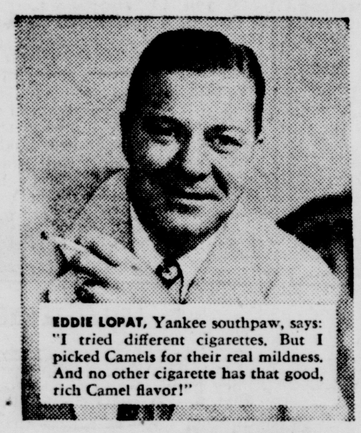

Up to now, each of these millions of connections had to be hand-soldered. But not any more. Telephone research has perfected a magic "gun" that wraps wires on equipment almost as fast as you can pull the trigger. This new device makes a tight connection—so tight, in fact, that soldering isn't needed! Time is saved. And money is saved—a mighty important factor in your telephone company's constant battle against today's inflated costs.

This new wiring "gun" is a relatively small thing in the total picture of bringing you telephone service. But it's many such small things that make your phone service so fast, so dependable, and so low in price.

Two Men Retire At Central Hudson

Robert H. Pixley of 75 Roosevelt avenue and Elliott S. Davis of 84 Washington avenue, both of Kingston, retired from the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. last week. Pixley has been with the utility company 31 years and Davis for 27 years.

Pixley started his Central Hudson career March 8, 1922. His first job was operator of the North Catskill substation. In 1932 he was transferred to the Newburgh electric station, and in 1938 was named chief operator at the Jansen avenue station. At the time of his retirement he was a substation foreman. Previous to his work with Central Hudson, Pixley worked for the Great Barrington Electric Light Company (now part of the New England Power Co.), and during World War I served with the Army Signal Corps.

Davis joined the utility company June 22, 1926 as service and adjustment representative in the Kingston commercial department. He later became public contact clerk and over the years has held positions as credit clerk and commercial representative. He was a special representative at the time of his retirement.

Corning Acts Against 'Outside Ice Box'

Corning, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Corning Common Council last night passed an ordinance making it illegal for anyone to own an "outside ice box" that cannot be opened from the inside.

Maximum penalty for violators will be $150 fine or 150 days in jail or both. Action on the ordinance was prompted by the number of children who have suffocated in ice boxes throughout the country in recent months.

Quadruplets Are Born

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Hudson, a 38-year-old grandmother, gave birth to quadruplets today. The latest arrivals—a boy and three girls—gave her a round dozen children. Authorities at the Gilgandra Hospital, 326 miles northwest of Sydney, said the births were normal and mother and babies were doing well. Arriving over a 3½-hour period, the babies weighed between 2 pounds 13 ounces (the boy) and 3 pounds 13. Mrs. Hudson had expected twins. The family has been living in two tents two miles out of Gilgandra. "I suppose I'll have to buy another tent," father E. R. Hudson, a 40-year-old fencing contractor, said in a telephone interview. But New South Wales Housing Minister Clive Evatt soon after promised the much-enlarged family a house. He said the state government was building three houses at Gilgandra and the Hudsons would be allotted the first one finished.

employer and that, therefore, groups of workers should have a protected legal right to bargain through professional negotiants?

From that premise affairs have drifted into a condition wherein the worker has no voice at all and may be hit on the head with a ball-bat for trying to go to his job. The AF of L had a right, of course, to cancel the charter of the ILA, but it has no right to warn the longshoremen to quit their old union and join the new one. It makes no difference how bad the old one was, always, be it noted, with the tacit approval of the Executive Council of the AF of L and the blessing of the Roosevelt-Truman Administration. It makes no difference how much better the new union is, although, to be frank, no union coming under the rule of Dave Beck, of the Teamsters', which is the plan in this case, would be a model of nobility and honor. The central fact is that the longshoremen here should have a right to join or to refuse to join any union.

It would be juvenile to regard the actual workers on the docks as gentlemen or high-minded citizens. There are criminals, drunks and wife-beaters among them and the trade is not an intellectual calling. Nevertheless, there are many very decent family men caught in this mess who want mainly to be let to work for a living subject to no harassment nor extortions.

Can a union member be personally innocent of a murder done in his name with his consent by his union for his financial or social benefit? The "thinking" of the time is that he does not deserve guilt from such a situation. In practical fact, he is helpless and might deserve entire mercy, even though the union exists primarily for the purpose of gaining selfish advantages for this individual, usually at the expense of other individuals. But he can't help being a member of the union, especially under the compulsion of goons swinging ball-bats. It would do him no good to protest at the union meeting and, on the contrary, he might be brained with a bat himself on the way home. At best, like a waitress whom I know, he would find himself assigned to the meanest, least profitable jobs, far from home, lasting way into the night.

The unions seized a great power over the members when they got control of the jobs through variants of the "hiring hall." That power gives the boss racketeer, the tyrant, a means of silencing all complaints.

after

Then mother learned it takes a Tonette, because Tonette takes every time! Now Diana's hair is soft and lovely—easy to care for as naturally curly hair!

It takes a Tonette, because you can trust Tonette's safe, sure, lanolin-enriched lotion to be kind to your daughter's hair—just as millions of mothers do. More mothers have given their daughters successful Tonettes than all other children's home permanents combined!

Official Report Of WCTU County Parley Released

The following is an official report of the annual convention of the Ulster County Woman's Christian Temperance Union:

(Official Report)

For years to come, the WCTU women of Ulster county will be talking about the beautiful day given them for their annual convention. The meeting in the Highland Methodist Church on Oct. 1 will always be a bright memory. Mrs. Lillie S. Shultis called the meeting to order soon after 10 a. m. and the program ran along smoothly.

Some things in that program stand out so clearly:

The Rev. Stanley Jones, pastor of the church, in his speech of welcome, drew a sharp line between what some Christians call temperance and total abstinence but since statistics prove that one person in every seven cannot stop with moderate drinking, the abstinence way is the wiser method.

Miss Lois Betz's period of devotion contained statistics, too—J. Edgar Hoover's statistics. His time schedule for crime is a call to the kind of prayer that will make once more our America a "God-fearing nation."

Reports from directors of departments showed that letters to protest against liquor advertising and letters to express opinions on pending laws are going to both state and national officials. Petitions mingle with the letters. It was interesting to hear what the department of soldiers and sailors is doing for those in camps and those in veterans' hospitals. The Ellenville Union is doing much work of this nature. In fact, Ellenville Union is ahead in many departments, not the least of which is the contributions of money. Because her union has been able to raise so much for the fund called budget, Mrs. Ernest Sherman, a faithful worker, has been made a torch bearer, a name that means honor in the state WCTU. Mrs. J. B. Stiketee of the Kingston Union is another torch bearer. New Paltz Union had the privilege of naming a life member and that honor was given to Miss Emma Roosa. Mrs. Hiram Relyea, familiarly known as Sarah D. LeFevre, becomes a memorial member.

There was a service of remembrance arranged and conducted by Mrs. D. M. Warren of Milton Union. White blossoms were placed and tributes paid to Mrs. Hiram Relyea and Mrs. Pontius Ahleberg, New Paltz; Mrs. Mary Nabor, Plattekill Union; Mrs. Lizzie Hutchins, Port Ewen; Miss Caroline Sears, Milton; Mrs. Fred Craft, Ellenville; Mrs. Granville Keer and Mrs. John Van Kleeck of Kingston Union and Mrs. Fred Wilsey, Highland.

All unions are light lines this year. That is, contributions are made toward the support of a missionary. Ellenville is the only union that can boast the junior groups—Loyal Temperance Legion and Youth Temperance Council. Ellenville also is ahead in the winning of new members. Some of the newer members came to the convention.

Again, Mrs. Eliza Keats Young was well enough to venture to a convention and her voice could be heard in the noontide prayer. And she gave a sample of the kind of letter one could write to an editor whose article suggested that the WCTU and the liquor interests were favoring a certain bill connected with selling liquor in camps. We are sure that editor will get chuckles out of the letter, even if it contains a rebuke for misrepresenting facts.

The Rev. Stewart MacCall of the Highland Presbyterian Church brought the meditation of the afternoon. It was based on paragraphs from the 9th Chapter of I Corinthians, where Paul states his willingness to become all things to all men in order to win some. He drew from the verses read the thought that faith in Christ must be the basis for any specific Christian work. He dwelt on the word Christian in the WCTU suggesting that the faith in Christ conveyed by the word Christian is what assures the value of any reform one could undertake.

There was an election of officers. Mrs. Shultis, who has come from Bridgeport to conduct several of the later county meetings, expects to continue to reside there. So she can be president of a New York State Union no longer. Mrs. R. M. Hasbrouck, known to everybody as Grace, is the leader of the Ulster County WCTU for the coming year, while Mrs. Franklin Dwight is her vice-president. The corresponding secretary is again Mrs. Ernest Sherman and the recording secretary, Miss Nellie Newkirk. Mrs. Emma G. Carpenter will carry on as county treasurer. Her new auditers are Mrs. Myron Shultis and Mrs. Courter.

The newly-elected officers were committed to their duties by an installation service conducted by the Rev. David C. Weidner.

The groups that gathered around Mrs. Shultis for a word of farewell rejoiced to know that she was coming to New York state again when the state WCTU meets in Albany Oct. 8 through Oct. 12th.

The convention had voted to send Mrs. Hasbrouck so Mrs. Shultis, the outgoing and Mrs. Hasbrouck, the incoming president, will be together through convention weeks to sift the information absorbed from day to day.

Skill and Luck Go Together in Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"What about this young team that won the national championship this year?" people often ask me. "Were they good, or were they lucky?"

The answer is that they were very good and slightly lucky." Even a very good team has to be slightly lucky to win its way to the championship, but no team can get there on luck alone. The youngsters are fine players, and they will do us credit in the world championship match next year in Europe.

Today's hand was played in the team championship by William A. Rosen, the 24-year-old college student who won the two principal events in the national championships. He got to a perfectly normal but very difficult contract in today's hand, and he played it with flawless technique. (The opening bid and the response were merely exploratory bids and were not intended to guarantee real suits).

West opened the deuce of hearts, and Rosen won in his own hand with the king. It was clear that he could get to dummy only once or twice at most. One diamond finesse wouldn't do him much good even if it worked, so Rosen led the jack of diamonds from his hand at the second trick.

East took the king of diamonds and led another heart, dummy winning with the ace. Now Rosen used this entry to dummy for a suit in which one lead from dummy could do some good. In other words, he led a club from dummy. East played low, and declarer put up the king, winning the trick.

There was still work to be done. Declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, dropping West's ten, led the low diamond to dummy's nine, and returned to his hand with the queen of hearts to cash the queen of diamonds. Having taken seven tricks, he got out with a low club, hoping that the opponents would have to give him two spade tricks.

East took the club trick with the ace and returned a club to West's queen. West cashed his last heart and then led a low spade. This gave South his choice. Should he play the ten or the queen of spades from dummy?

This was actually no problem at all. East surely had the king of spades, for otherwise he would have led a spade after he had taken his ace of clubs. Hence Rosen played the ten of spades from dummy and thus assured his contract with two spade tricks.

Gets Life in Prison

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 6 (AP)—Former Wafdist Minister Ibrahim Faarag was sentenced to life imprisonment by a special revolutionary court today for high treason and "conspiracy with a foreign power against state security." He was the third person convicted in a week on similar charges. More than a score of Egyptians accused of plotting against President Mohammed Naguib's government are still awaiting trial before the three-man tribunal. There has been no official identification of the foreign power allegedly implicated in the plot.

Legend of Ernie Pyle Lives Because of His Great Stories

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—Ernie Pyle lives on.

The din of the Second World War is dying in the distance of time, as the world wheels on to fresh woes and wars and new truces. Many of the heroes of the great conflict are slowly being forgotten.

But Ernie Pyle, the man, has become a legend, and the years have put no tarnish on the luster of his name and fame. People in thousands of homes across America still cherish scrapbooks in which they pasted his stories, and they still get them out and read them.

Why are they so loyal to him eight years after his death? I think it is because he was so loyal to them, and their sons, brothers, fathers or sweethearts in uniform during his lifetime. He was the greatest typewriter tourist guide in history. Nobody before him or since has ever been able to take the home folks by the heart and lead them up to the front and realize the hell their loved ones were going through.

Plaque Is Placed

In a National Newspaper Week ceremony Monday they put up a plaque at his old school, Indiana University, in his memory. Ernie became the ninth of America's famous newspapermen so honored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional Journalistic fraternity.

His old friend, Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, paid him tribute in the main address, and Ernie would have liked that. But if Pyle, the little man who wasn't there, could have heard the praise he would probably have chuckled later in the general's ear, "Brad, you're never going to get anywhere until you pull yourself together and learn to quit telling such whoppers."

Like Bears on Bikes

For Ernie wouldn't have been able to keep his elfin face sober at the ceremony, particularly a ceremony honoring himself, He always thought people managed to make themselves look ridiculous on solemn occasions — like bears riding bicycles. Yet he had a vast sense of the true dignity of man. For all his fun and warmth and sympathy, his own skinny 112-pound frame had an unshakeable dignity, and all you had to do was to see the purpose in his blue eyes to be aware of it. And that gave the real power to his writing.

Ernie Pyle wasn't the first reporter to make a hero of the infantryman. He did much more than that. He was the first to make the nation aware of the immortal dignity of the doughboy, who on every battlefield keeps the stature of a man in the face of the indignities of danger, dirt and death, hunger and hardship.

To Ernie the infantryman wasn't a hero because he fought and killed the enemy. He was a higher hero, one who endured suffering that would debase an animal and yet remained a human being, still moved by love and pity and charity.

That made the dougboy a figure of awesome grandeur to Ernie, and that is Ernie's greatest legacy—that he was able to make America realize the spiritual height of the soldier in combat. And as he suffered with them, he became taller, too.

To the job of war reporting Ernest Taylor Pyle gave his health, his hope of a happy home, his dream of ultimate personal peace, and finally — at 44 — his life. Whether, if he had it to do all over again, he would take the same path I don't know. I'd guess yes. But anyone who wants to know what war is really like can do no better today than go to his books—or go to war. Nobody ever told it better or more honestly.

A young lady who wants to become a newspaperman asked me, "everybody says what a wonderful guy Ernie Pyle was. What did he have, anyway?"

I didn't know where to begin. You can't wrap Ernie in a phrase.

"Well, he had many things," I finally told her. "But I think his greatest gift was understanding. He was lonely, and knew everybody else in the world was lonely in the same way, and somehow he was able to communicate this feeling that he understood them, and therefore everybody felt he was a friend."

Even in his grave they still do.

Cool Air Spreads Over Wide Sections

(By The Associated Press)

Cool air spread over wide areas of the country today but an early October heat wave continued in southern California.

One surge of cooler air extended from New England southwestward through the Ohio river valley and southward through the lower Mississippi river valley. A second mass of cool Canadian air moved southeastward across the Great Lakes region and into the north central region.

Temperatures dropped to a chilly 11 above zero at Fraser, Colo., early today. In contrast, it was 80 above in Yuma, Ariz. Another day of hot weather was in prospect for southern California after yesterday's 100-plus readings. It was 101 in Los Angeles, a record for the date, 102 in Long Beach and an unofficial 108 at Glendale.

Light rain fell early today in parts of Michigan and Pennsylvania and northeastward into New England. Showers also were reported along the Ohio river from Huntington, W. Va., to Pittsburgh and in southeastern Kentucky.

259,630 Register For New York Vote

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The first day of week-long registration for the Nov. 3 mayoral election brought out 259,630 potential New York city voters.

The total of those who registered yesterday afternoon and last night was 28,536 under the 288,166 who signed up the first day for the last regular mayoral election four years ago.

The total 1949 registration of 2,775,636 was the all-time high for a mayoral election.

This year's first-day registration was less than half of the 550,273 who signed up on the first day for last year's presidential election. Last year's week-long total was 3,528,967.

Registration in the city's 4,217 election districts will continue from 3:30 to 10:30 p. m. through Friday, and from 7 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. on Saturday.

Yesterday's borough-by-borough registration compared with the first day in the last regular mayoral election in 1949:

	1953	1949
Brooklyn	86,127	99,139
Manhattan	65,197	77,666

Democrats Elect Two Mayors, Get Three GOP Towns

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 6 (AP)—Democrats elected two mayors and took control of three Republican held towns in statewide municipal elections yesterday.

In Bristol the Democrats defeated a Republican mayor and in Torrington continued a Democrat in office.

They upset Republicans in West Haven, a New Haven suburb of 32,000 which has been Republican since 1933 and which in 1952 gave President Eisenhower a 4,000-vote plurality over Adlai Stevenson. Democrats won control with a 400-vote plurality yesterday.

Republicans went into the elections in 129 of the state's 169 communities controlling 101 towns and came out with control of 98.

Except for Bristol and Torrington, the first selectmanship or control of the town council was at stake and generally campaigns were fought on local issues.

Urges Support

State Republican Chairman Clarence F. Baldwin had urged support of GOP candidates as "an endorsement of the outstanding record of achievement made by President Eisenhower's administration in its first few vigorous months."

He also called upon voters to put "a stamp of approval on Governor (John) Lodge's constructive administration."

In a statement issued following the election, State Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey said that while the returns "prove that the people are starting to correct the mistake made last year in the state and national balloting, he did not consider them a "repudiation of the Eisenhower Administration."

"I do, however, believe that the results add up to a repudiation of the administration of Governor Lodge and particularly the governor's sales tax increase program already in effect," the Democratic leader added.

Increases Sales Tax

A Republican-controlled general Assembly increased the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent in a session which ended last May.

Republican Chairman Baldwin, on the other hand, said the results, despite the switches in Bristol and West Haven, demonstrated "the confidence the majority of the people of the state have in their local Republican officials and candidates."

In Bristol, James P. Casey, a former state representative, who won the mayoralty in 1947 and 1949 but lost it by 1,011 votes in 1951 to Daniel Donovan, won again to even the score with Donovan who ran as a Republican-independent. The vote was 8,395 to 5,773.

Former Lieut. Gov. William T. Carroll defeated Republican Joseph C. Barrante, a grocer, in the Torrington mayoral elections 7,700 to 4,635.

New Courses Will Be Offered Adults At Paltz School

The adult education program which is scheduled to start at New Paltz High School on Monday evening, Oct. 19, will feature this year several new courses that should appeal to many of the adults of the community, according to Frederick C. Dippel Jr., director.

A class in "The United Nations and the World Scene" will meet on Wednesday evenings for a period of 10-weeks. This course will be conducted by Dr. Willard Hogan, of the State Teacher's College, who will be assisted by Seymour Fersh, teacher of social studies at the high school. The instructors will attempt to examine the broad outlines of world movements and their implications for the United States and the United Nations. A trip to the United Nations headquarters in New York will be arranged if the members of the group desire it.

To Repeat Piano Course

Last year's class in piano instruction, given by Mrs. Kost was so well received that it will be repeated again this year along with a class in instrumental lessons to be led by Robert Breary, of the high school. Mr. Breary will offer lessons in the string and brass instruments. It will not be necessary for those interested in these lessons to own their own instruments since the school has a supply of them that may be used.

It is hoped that there will be as good a response to this class as there has been to the classes in piano.

Booklets describing the various classes will be sent out within the next week. Anyone not receiving a booklet or desiring further information about the adult program may call Frederick Dippel, director of adult education, at New Paltz High School.

New Courses Will Be Offered Adults At Paltz School

The adult education program which is scheduled to start at New Paltz High School on Monday evening, Oct. 19, will feature this year several new courses that should appeal to many of the adults of the community, according to Frederick C. Dippel Jr., director.

A class in "The United Nations and the World Scene" will meet on Wednesday evenings for a period of 10-weeks. This course will be conducted by Dr. Willard Hogan, of the State Teacher's College, who will be assisted by Seymour Fersh, teacher of social studies at the high school. The instructors will attempt to examine the broad outlines of world movements and their implications for the United States and the United Nations. A trip to the United Nations headquarters in New York will be arranged if the members of the group desire it.

Dr. Hogan is the chief of the United Nations Information Center at New Paltz State Teacher's College and is the co-author of a college text on the United Nations. Mr. Fersh recently completed a two months working internship at the United Nations.

Mr. Breary will offer lessons in the string and brass instruments. It will not be necessary for those interested in these lessons to own their own instruments since the school has a supply of them that may be used.

It is hoped that there will be as good a response to this class as there has been to the classes in piano.

Booklets describing the various classes will be sent out within the next week. Anyone not receiving a booklet or desiring further information about the adult program may call Frederick Dippel, director of adult education, at New Paltz High School.

Number One Band Will Play for Dancing At Annual VFW Ball

RALPH FLANAGAN

Ralph Flanagan and his "pride of R.C.A. Victor" recording orchestra will play for Joyce-Schirick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, annual ball and entertainment at the municipal auditorium, Monday, Oct. 19.

America's Number One Band is how the leading music publications described Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra a short time after they played their first date at Wrentham, Mass. in March, 1950. Actually, although the description was correct, it fell far short of telling the story. Closer to a true picture would have been supplied by such a phrase as America's Miracle Band. For in climbing to the top, Flanagan broke every established speed law for success.

In the first year he accomplished such as: grossed a half-million dollars; played in person to an estimated three million persons; broke attendance records in many of the nation's top dance band location spots; had 44 weeks of sponsored commercial radio shows on CBS and ABC networks; was spotlighted on many television programs; waxed a long list of solid selling records and placed first in every important popularity poll in the country.

One of the main reasons for Ralph's success lies in his ability to turn out instrumental numbers with a strong dance beat and thus he has generated a new interest in dance music. Not since before World War 2 had any dance band been able to build up a following and this Flanagan and his orchestra have done in three short years.

Featured with Flanagan and his orchestra are Buddy Victor, vocalist, and the Young Sisters, talented sister singing duo.

In addition to Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra the Veterans of Foreign Wars will present an exceptional collection of Broadway acts. As Ed Parmelee, entertainment chairman, said, "With the acts we selected, and I saw them all, I'm sure Kingston is in for its greatest show."

Number One Band Will Play for Dancing At Annual VFW Ball

RALPH FLANAGAN

Ralph Flanagan and his "pride of R.C.A. Victor" recording orchestra will play for Joyce-Schirick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, annual ball and entertainment at the municipal auditorium, Monday, Oct. 19.

America's Number One Band is how the leading music publications described Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra a short time after they played their first date at Wrentham, Mass. in March, 1950. Actually, although the description was correct, it fell far short of telling the story. Closer to a true picture would have been supplied by such a phrase as America's Miracle Band. In the first year he accomplished such as: grossed a half-million dollars; played in person to an estimated three million persons; broke attendance records in many of the nation's top dance band location spots; had 44 weeks of sponsored commercial radio shows on CBS and ABC networks; was spotlighted on many television programs; waxed a long list of solid selling records and placed first in every important popularity poll in the country.

One of the main reasons for Ralph's success lies in his ability to turn out instrumental numbers with a strong dance beat and thus he has generated a new interest in dance music. Not since before World War 2 had any dance band been able to build up a following and this Flanagan and his orchestra have done in three short years.

Featured with Flanagan and his orchestra are Buddy Victor, vocalist, and the Young Sisters, talented sister singing duo.

In addition to Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra the Veterans of Foreign Wars will present an exceptional collection of Broadway acts. As Ed Parmelee, entertainment chairman, said, "With the acts we selected, and I saw them all, I'm sure Kingston is in for its greatest show."

Indians Say . . .

had asked for gas masks and tear gas.

The Indians put down—but not without bloodshed—two attempted breakouts by anti-Communist prisoners last week. Three prisoners were killed and 10 wounded as hundreds tried to scale barbed wire fences around their command.

27,000 Broke Out

About 27,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners broke from UN prison compounds under orders from South Korea's President Syngman Rhee last summer.

Thimayya acknowledged that the commission had not definitely decided what to do if the prisoners refuse to attend interviews.

He added, however, that he did not think it would be "physically impossible" for the commission to force POWs to listen to "explanations."

"I think we can ask the prisoners to listen for 5 or 10 minutes," he said.

Asked what the commission would do if an entire compound of prisoners staged a sit down strike rather than meet with the agents, he replied:

"Search me, I don't know what we could do. I supposed I'd have to refer to the commission."

Clark, in his letter to Thimayya, denounced the commission ruling that all POWs must attend the interviews—whether they like it or not.

He said the UN command "cannot now condone any abrogation or compromise" of the Korean War truce terms.

"It would seem," Clark wrote, "that the commission has not taken full cognizance of the fact that the Korean and Chinese prisoners made their choice many months ago and that, in the absence of force or coercion, the vast majority will adhere to their decision."

DECLINING TO BE WEDDING ATTENDANT

A girl writes me: "I would like to know how I can decline gracefully to be a wedding attendant for a girl who is comparatively new in this town, but with whom I have become quite friendly. Before she moved here I was engaged to her intended, but unfortunately our wedding plans fell through. This girl is now engaged to him and plans to marry him shortly. She has asked me to be in the wedding party. I never told her of my engagement to him as I did not care to talk about it and furthermore thought this knowledge might embarrass her. So you can see, Mrs. Post, why I'd rather not take part, but how can I bow out without telling her the reason? Can you help me?"

I think you will have to tell her that at one time the groom-to-be was engaged to you and it would surely cause some comment if you were to be in their wedding party.

When School Song Is Played

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is a graduate of X University. Being a former football player, he still has a keen interest in the team and consequently goes to practically all of their games and I go with him to many of them. Whenever the school song is played, he naturally rises. I would like to know if I am supposed to rise too.

Answer: Although you are not obliged to, it is certainly courteous to do so, especially if other girls around you do so.

Acknowledging Broken Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: One of the wedding presents sent me through the mail was broken when it reached me. In my note of thanks, should I mention this fact, or do I simply thank her for the lovely dish? My sister thinks that if I write that it was broken the person who sent it will feel obliged to replace it with something else.

Answer: I am afraid your sister is right, and that you should not say your present arrived broken.

What is the obligation of the godparents to a newborn baby? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-36, "The New Baby," includes details about the Christening, and duty of godparents. Four Days Late

The track opened last Friday night—four days late—for its fall meeting after a suspension by the Harness Racing Commission pending a purge of criminal elements. Roosevelt Raceway ended its meeting a week ago Saturday night.

In the Roosevelt Raceway probe, Bergman declined to elaborate on his statement that he had owned Nassau Trotting Association stock for some time. "I don't want to get involved in a political controversy," he said.

Newsday, a Long Island newspaper, last week quoted Bergman as saying the late Andrew Weston, an original investor in Roosevelt, offered to sell Bergman 2,000 shares at $1 a share.

Newsday continued that on Weston's advice Bergman contacted the late Harrison M. Haverback, a Wall street banker, and Bergman bought the stock with borrowed money, using the stock as collateral. The date of the stock sale was not given by the newspaper.

The newspaper said the Roosevelt stock later was split 4-to-1, giving Bergman and his family 8,000 shares. The stock has been paying annual dividends of $2 a share, and Newsday said Bergman repaid the loan with dividends from the stock.

Police Arrest Him

Saratoga Springs, Oct. 6 (AP)—Fred Crandall, 19, called police to his home to investigate the theft of two radios and a hot water heater. The officers came, all right, arrested Crandall on a charge of driving without a license and driving with improper plates. He was fined $5 and given a suspended 10-day sentence on his guilty plea. No word on the burglars, yet.

No Cases Ready

No cases were ready in Supreme Court Monday afternoon and Justice Donald S. Taylor adjourned court until Wednesday at 10 o'clock. After excuses had been heard only 11 of the panel of 24 grand jurors remained and an extra panel of 20 was drawn to report Wednesday morning when, if a panel is obtained, the grand jury will organize and begin its deliberations.

27,000 Broke Out

About 27,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners broke from UN prison compounds under orders from South Korea's President Syngman Rhee last summer.

Thimayya acknowledged that the commission had not definitely decided what to do if the prisoners refuse to attend interviews.

He added, however, that he did not think it would be "physically impossible" for the commission to force POWs to listen to "explanations."

"I think we can ask the prisoners to listen for 5 or 10 minutes," he said.

Asked what the commission would do if an entire compound of prisoners staged a sit down strike rather than meet with the agents, he replied:

"Search me, I don't know what we could do. I supposed I'd have to refer to the commission."

Clark, in his letter to Thimayya, denounced the commission ruling that all POWs must attend the interviews—whether they like it or not.

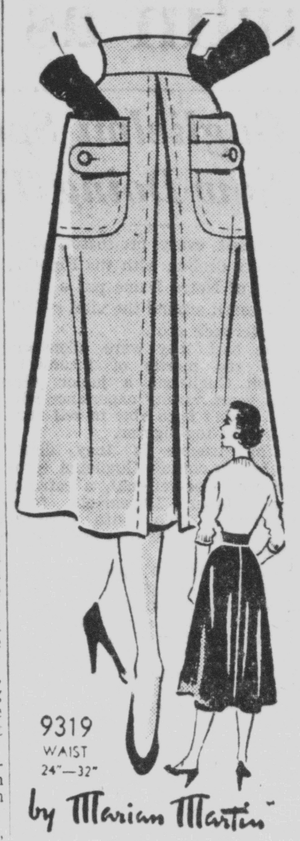

He said the UN command "cannot now condone any abrogation or compromise" of the Korean War truce terms.

"It would seem," Clark wrote, "that the commission has not taken full cognizance of the fact that the Korean and Chinese prisoners made their choice many months ago and that, in the absence of force or coercion, the vast majority will adhere to their decision."

DECLINING TO BE WEDDING ATTENDANT

A girl writes me: "I would like to know how I can decline gracefully to be a wedding attendant for a girl who is comparatively new in this town, but with whom I have become quite friendly. Before she moved here I was engaged to her intended, but unfortunately our wedding plans fell through. This girl is now engaged to him and plans to marry him shortly. She has asked me to be in the wedding party. I never told her of my engagement to him as I did not care to talk about it and furthermore thought this knowledge might embarrass her. So you can see, Mrs. Post, why I'd rather not take part, but how can I bow out without telling her the reason? Can you help me?"

I think you will have to tell her that at one time the groom-to-be was engaged to you and it would surely cause some comment if you were to be in their wedding party.

When School Song Is Played

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is a graduate of X University. Being a former football player, he still has a keen interest in the team and consequently goes to practically all of their games and I go with him to many of them. Whenever the school song is played, he naturally rises. I would like to know if I am supposed to rise too.

Answer: Although you are not obliged to, it is certainly courteous to do so, especially if other girls around you do so.

Acknowledging Broken Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: One of the wedding presents sent me through the mail was broken when it reached me. In my note of thanks, should I mention this fact, or do I simply thank her for the lovely dish? My sister thinks that if I write that it was broken the person who sent it will feel obliged to replace it with something else.

Answer: I am afraid your sister is right, and that you should not say your present arrived broken.

What is the obligation of the godparents to a newborn baby? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-36, "The New Baby," includes details about the Christening, and duty of godparents. Yankees and Dodgers Acclaim Billy Martin as the Series Hero

Stengel Earns Record Fifth Straight Title

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—It was right and proper that the player whom Casey Stengel loves above all his other Yankees should have stroked the ninth-inning single which won the deciding game of the 1953 World Series and made the Old Professor the only manager in the history of the game to win five straight world championships.

If the grizzled strategist could have picked his man to lace the one-out drive into centerfield that gave the Bombers their thrilling 4-3 victory and crushed the resurgent Brooklyn Dodgers, you may be certain his choice would have been the hard-bitten little scrapper he managed at Oakland.

Even Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers might have had slightly mixed feelings when he saw Billy Martin lay into Clem Labine's second pitch and watched Hank Bauer heading for home with his ground-eating strides. By one of baseball's choice coincidences, he managed the boy he refers to as 'that tough little monkey" the year before Casey did at Oakland.

Only three nights ago, after Martin had made himself something of a goat by attempting to score a run that wouldn't have meant anything and getting thrown out at home to end the fourth game, Chuck sat long in his private dressing room at Ebbets Field and talked about the battler from the cast. His words were all in admiration.

No Popular Guy

It should not be assumed from any of this that everybody loves the Series hero. The Brooklyn players hold the young man in low esteem. He is, in fact, their unfavorite Yankee because they consider him a popoff and all-around smart alec.

After what must have been seen yesterday by many millions, including 62,370 who paid to be frozen blue in a sudden change of weather, it can only be accepted that the Yankees are supposed to win World Series and that the present Brooklyn team, however good, is destined to wind up with the losers' share.

The chances are that a year from now the Bombers will be dividing up their sixth straight pot and that Stengel, finally convinced he has put his record beyond reach, will announce his retirement to his swimming pool and his oil wells.

Dodgers Were Tough

The Brooks were by no means outclassed nor brought disgrace to the National League. Their lack of pitching depth finally told on them, as it figured to do, but they proved themselves the stout hitters that their averages promised and they never quit punching.

Few who saw it will forget the heart-stopping home run that Carl Furillo dropped into the right corner with one down in the top of the ninth to score Duke Snider ahead of him and tie the score at 3-3. It was no fault of the National League's batting champion that he instead of Martin didn't emerge the game's big figure.

The Yanks had been leading, from the game's opening minutes and were in front by 3-0 after two innings. The Dodgers finally had scored a loner off young Whitey Ford in the sixth only because Jackie Robinson took charge with a double, stole third without drawing a throw and raced in on an infield out.

That was all the Dodgers had managed going into their last time at bat under the lights. Their chances looked even slimmer when Stengel, playing a hunch, brought Allie Reynolds in to relieve Ford to start the eighth.

Furillo Hits Homer

Reynolds worked through the eighth and the Yanks felt cozy going into the ninth—more so after Gil Hodges flied out to short center. Then Snider worked Reynolds for a pass, and Furillo, who previously had hit Ford for a double and a single, socked one into the stands with the count 3 and 2.

When the din finally died down and the Dodgers quit hugging one another, Reynolds struck out Billy Cox and Labine in fast succession to close the inning.

Then Labine walked Bauer, the first man to face him in the Yankee half. Berra lined one into Furillo's hands close to the right barrier. Mickey Mantle popped a dribbler to the left side of the diamond which Cox couldn't handle, Bauer racing to second.

Then Came Martin

Then there was Martin. The first pitch he let go past for a called strike, which he didn't like. The next one he belted squarely just to the left of second base into centerfield. Snider came tearing in to take it on the hop, but didn't even bother to try a throw to the plate. Bauer, one of the fastest base runners in the game, couldn't have been tagged with a rocket gun.

The Dodgers all just trudged in slowly toward their dugout, dejected and wary, while the Yankees caught Martin out near first base and gave him a fine mauling.

Reynolds, having permitted the tying run on Furillo's blast, gained credit for his seventh World Series victory when Billy took him off the hook. That ties the Chief with a Yankee right-hander before him, Red Ruffing.

A Hug for the Hero

The Yankees' Billy Martin gets an enhusiastic hug from coach Frank Crosetti in the dressing room as other Yankees mill around. It was Billy's hit in the ninth inning which gave the Yankees a 4-3 win in the Oct. 5th World Series game and their fifth straight championship. The blow came after the Dodgers tied the game in the top of the ninth.

Dodger Jockeys Rode Martin Hard But 'the Kid' Had Last Laugh

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Dodgers "is" dead and Billy (The Brat) Martin, the "dead end" kid from California, is the little Yankee who slew them.

It was a bitter defeat for the Brooks to swallow almost unbearable because it was made possible by Martin, most hated of all Yankees.

The Brooklyn players made no attempt to conceal their deep dislike for the tough and cocky little second baseman. At various times during the series they called him "fresh," they called him "showboat," they called him "dirty," and they called him names not fit to print.

But at the end of the final game, after Martin had delivered the winning single, a record-breaking 12th hit, they called him "the best player on the Yankees."

They made certain, however, to put a "blankety-blank" in front of his name.

"Sure I hate to lose," remarked one Dodger bitterly, "but having that so-and-so beat you is doubly hard to take. I wouldn't have minded so much if it had been Mantle or Berra, but that cocky little . . ."

Praised To A Man

Despite their personal feeling for Martin, the entire Brooklyn squad voiced praise for the spindly-legged infielder.

"It was that blankety-blank .250 hitter that beat us," said Charlie Dressen. "It was that little cuss out there on second. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club.

"That little Martin is mean on the field," continued the Brooklyn manager. "He'll beat you any way he can. He'll trip you, fight you or cut you. He'll knock your brains out, if he can. He's that kind of a ball player."

Martin appeared like anything but a fresh, show-boat type of hero as he was besieged by reporters in the Yankee clubhouse demanding to know his entire life history.

"I couldn't believe I did it," he said happily but with a certain amount of reserve. "It was the biggest thrill of my life.

"I kept hoping, however, as I waited for my final turn at bat, that Mickey (Mantle) would get on base. I felt confident I would get a hit. They tell me that Phil (Rizzuto) predicted to Casey (Stengel) that I would break up the ball game. Maybe Phil was reading my mind because that's the way I felt."

Martin admitted the Dodger bench jockeys were giving him a rough time but he said he didn't mind a bit.

"I never paid any attention to them," he said. "Sure they called me all kinds of names, but I called them some good ones, too, when they came to bat. Campanella, especially, had it in for me because he claimed I tried to run over him during the final play of the fourth game. That wasn't so. I was just trying to score. What was I supposed to do? Let him tag me out?"

Eddie Lopat, the Yankee southpaw who will lead an all-star squad that will tour Japan and Korea, hugged and kissed Martin.

"You little cuss," he said. "You made me change my lineup. I had you listed as utility man on my team with Nellie Fox (Chicago White Sox) as the regular second baseman. Now I've got to make you the regular or I'll lose my job."

Ohio State jumped from sixth to third on the strength of its impressive 33-19 triumph over California in a nationally-televised game while Michigan fell a notch to fifth despite a 26-7 victory over Tulane. The Buckeyes received 769 points to 636 for Michigan.

Maryland, dropped from third to fourth, received 733 points. UCLA was sixth with 430 points, followed by Southern California 424, Duke 311, Baylor 288 and Georgia Tech 277 to round out the top ten.

Wolgast Serious

Camarillo, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP)—The little man who held the world's lightweight boxing title from 1910 to 1912, Ad Wolgast, is critically ill in a state mental hospital that has been his home for years. Wolgast, who won the title by a technical knockout over Battling Nelson in 40 rounds, is suffering from an upper respiratory infection. Doctors have been trying to ward off pneumonia.

Guglielmi Sparkles Both Ways for Irish, Now Doing Things First Expected of Him

Almost every pre-season prospectors dealing with the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame put a question mark around the vital split-T quarterback spot.

At best they were lukewarm over the merits of incumbent Ralph Guglielmi, a junior with two years varsity experience who still hadn't been able to sell himself as a top-flighter.

The trouble is tney didn't bother to consult Guglielmi (pronounced Goo-yell-me), a refreshingly brash 19-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, with consummate belief in his own and team's ability.

In the season opener against Oklahoma, Googs, as the boys call him, demonstrated sound foundation for that belief, with a marvelous display of all-round versatility, running, passing, directing his squad and playing defensive halfback.

The first time Murray Olderman of the NEA staff met the cocky youngster was after the 1952 opener against Pennsylvania, and the Irish had been rocked with a surprising 7-7 tie.

"I over-rated them," was his post-game reaction. "We should have had five touchdowns."

This was still in the platoon era, and Ralph was having a tough time maintaining a playing edge over teammate Tom Carey. Quarterbacks were valuable bric-a-brac consigned only to directing the team.

"I'd like to play defense," Ralph complained. "Leahy won't let me."

This year he got his wish and has shown a knack for coming up with the big tackle or the key interception. He's a sturdy enough 180-pounder, but his one drawback is lack of speed. This he compensates with quick-thinking decisiveness. It's vital in a split-T quarterback who drifts behind the line and must make up his mind when he reaches the tackles whether he's going to pitch out or keep the ball and slant in.

He's now doing the things they first expected of him when he came to Notre Dame as a freshman in 1951 and by late season had become a varsity regular and star of the Southern California game.

As a high schooler he was all-Ohio and won 10 letters in football, basketball and baseball. So how did he escape the net sent out by home town Ohio State?

"It beats me," he answered flippantly.

It also beats a lot of the teams that have to play Notre Dame.

Yankees and Dodgers Acclaim Billy Martin as the Series Hero

Stengel Earns Record Fifth Straight Title

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—It was right and proper that the player whom Casey Stengel loves above all his other Yankees should have stroked the ninth-inning single which won the deciding game of the 1953 World Series and made the Old Professor the only manager in the history of the game to win five straight world championships.

If the grizzled strategist could have picked his man to lace the one-out drive into centerfield that gave the Bombers their thrilling 4-3 victory and crushed the resurgent Brooklyn Dodgers, you may be certain his choice would have been the hard-bitten little scrapper he managed at Oakland.

Even Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers might have had slightly mixed feelings when he saw Billy Martin lay into Clem Labine's second pitch and watched Hank Bauer heading for home with his ground-eating strides. By one of baseball's choice coincidences, he managed the boy he refers to as 'that tough little monkey" the year before Casey did at Oakland.

Only three nights ago, after Martin had made himself something of a goat by attempting to score a run that wouldn't have meant anything and getting thrown out at home to end the fourth game, Chuck sat long in his private dressing room at Ebbets Field and talked about the battler from the cast. His words were all in admiration.

No Popular Guy

It should not be assumed from any of this that everybody loves the Series hero. The Brooklyn players hold the young man in low esteem. He is, in fact, their unfavorite Yankee because they consider him a popoff and all-around smart alec.

After what must have been seen yesterday by many millions, including 62,370 who paid to be frozen blue in a sudden change of weather, it can only be accepted that the Yankees are supposed to win World Series and that the present Brooklyn team, however good, is destined to wind up with the losers' share.

The chances are that a year from now the Bombers will be dividing up their sixth straight pot and that Stengel, finally convinced he has put his record beyond reach, will announce his retirement to his swimming pool and his oil wells.

Dodgers Were Tough

The Brooks were by no means outclassed nor brought disgrace to the National League. Their lack of pitching depth finally told on them, as it figured to do, but they proved themselves the stout hitters that their averages promised and they never quit punching.

Few who saw it will forget the heart-stopping home run that Carl Furillo dropped into the right corner with one down in the top of the ninth to score Duke Snider ahead of him and tie the score at 3-3. It was no fault of the National League's batting champion that he instead of Martin didn't emerge the game's big figure.

The Yanks had been leading, from the game's opening minutes and were in front by 3-0 after two innings. The Dodgers finally had scored a loner off young Whitey Ford in the sixth only because Jackie Robinson took charge with a double, stole third without drawing a throw and raced in on an infield out.

That was all the Dodgers had managed going into their last time at bat under the lights. Their chances looked even slimmer when Stengel, playing a hunch, brought Allie Reynolds in to relieve Ford to start the eighth.

Furillo Hits Homer

Reynolds worked through the eighth and the Yanks felt cozy going into the ninth—more so after Gil Hodges flied out to short center. Then Snider worked Reynolds for a pass, and Furillo, who previously had hit Ford for a double and a single, socked one into the stands with the count 3 and 2.

When the din finally died down and the Dodgers quit hugging one another, Reynolds struck out Billy Cox and Labine in fast succession to close the inning.

Then Labine walked Bauer, the first man to face him in the Yankee half. Berra lined one into Furillo's hands close to the right barrier. Mickey Mantle popped a dribbler to the left side of the diamond which Cox couldn't handle, Bauer racing to second.

Then Came Martin

Then there was Martin. The first pitch he let go past for a called strike, which he didn't like. The next one he belted squarely just to the left of second base into centerfield. Snider came tearing in to take it on the hop, but didn't even bother to try a throw to the plate. Bauer, one of the fastest base runners in the game, couldn't have been tagged with a rocket gun.

The Dodgers all just trudged in slowly toward their dugout, dejected and wary, while the Yankees caught Martin out near first base and gave him a fine mauling.

Reynolds, having permitted the tying run on Furillo's blast, gained credit for his seventh World Series victory when Billy took him off the hook. That ties the Chief with a Yankee right-hander before him, Red Ruffing.

A Hug for the Hero

The Yankees' Billy Martin gets an enhusiastic hug from coach Frank Crosetti in the dressing room as other Yankees mill around. It was Billy's hit in the ninth inning which gave the Yankees a 4-3 win in the Oct. 5th World Series game and their fifth straight championship. The blow came after the Dodgers tied the game in the top of the ninth.

Dodger Jockeys Rode Martin Hard But 'the Kid' Had Last Laugh

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Dodgers "is" dead and Billy (The Brat) Martin, the "dead end" kid from California, is the little Yankee who slew them.

It was a bitter defeat for the Brooks to swallow almost unbearable because it was made possible by Martin, most hated of all Yankees.

The Brooklyn players made no attempt to conceal their deep dislike for the tough and cocky little second baseman. At various times during the series they called him "fresh," they called him "showboat," they called him "dirty," and they called him names not fit to print.

But at the end of the final game, after Martin had delivered the winning single, a record-breaking 12th hit, they called him "the best player on the Yankees."

They made certain, however, to put a "blankety-blank" in front of his name.

"Sure I hate to lose," remarked one Dodger bitterly, "but having that so-and-so beat you is doubly hard to take. I wouldn't have minded so much if it had been Mantle or Berra, but that cocky little . . ."

Praised To A Man

Despite their personal feeling for Martin, the entire Brooklyn squad voiced praise for the spindly-legged infielder.

"It was that blankety-blank .250 hitter that beat us," said Charlie Dressen. "It was that little cuss out there on second. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club.

"That little Martin is mean on the field," continued the Brooklyn manager. "He'll beat you any way he can. He'll trip you, fight you or cut you. He'll knock your brains out, if he can. He's that kind of a ball player."

Martin appeared like anything but a fresh, show-boat type of hero as he was besieged by reporters in the Yankee clubhouse demanding to know his entire life history.

"I couldn't believe I did it," he said happily but with a certain amount of reserve. "It was the biggest thrill of my life.

"I kept hoping, however, as I waited for my final turn at bat, that Mickey (Mantle) would get on base. I felt confident I would get a hit. They tell me that Phil (Rizzuto) predicted to Casey (Stengel) that I would break up the ball game. Maybe Phil was reading my mind because that's the way I felt."

Martin admitted the Dodger bench jockeys were giving him a rough time but he said he didn't mind a bit.

"I never paid any attention to them," he said. "Sure they called me all kinds of names, but I called them some good ones, too, when they came to bat. Campanella, especially, had it in for me because he claimed I tried to run over him during the final play of the fourth game. That wasn't so. I was just trying to score. What was I supposed to do? Let him tag me out?"

Eddie Lopat, the Yankee southpaw who will lead an all-star squad that will tour Japan and Korea, hugged and kissed Martin.

"You little cuss," he said. "You made me change my lineup. I had you listed as utility man on my team with Nellie Fox (Chicago White Sox) as the regular second baseman. Now I've got to make you the regular or I'll lose my job."

Wolgast Serious

Camarillo, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP)—The little man who held the world's lightweight boxing title from 1910 to 1912, Ad Wolgast, is critically ill in a state mental hospital that has been his home for years. Wolgast, who won the title by a technical knockout over Battling Nelson in 40 rounds, is suffering from an upper respiratory infection. Doctors have been trying to ward off pneumonia.

Guglielmi Sparkles Both Ways for Irish, Now Doing Things First Expected of Him

Almost every pre-season prospectors dealing with the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame put a question mark around the vital split-T quarterback spot.

At best they were lukewarm over the merits of incumbent Ralph Guglielmi, a junior with two years varsity experience who still hadn't been able to sell himself as a top-flighter.

The trouble is tney didn't bother to consult Guglielmi (pronounced Goo-yell-me), a refreshingly brash 19-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, with consummate belief in his own and team's ability.

In the season opener against Oklahoma, Googs, as the boys call him, demonstrated sound foundation for that belief, with a marvelous display of all-round versatility, running, passing, directing his squad and playing defensive halfback.

The first time Murray Olderman of the NEA staff met the cocky youngster was after the 1952 opener against Pennsylvania, and the Irish had been rocked with a surprising 7-7 tie.

"I over-rated them," was his post-game reaction. "We should have had five touchdowns."

This was still in the platoon era, and Ralph was having a tough time maintaining a playing edge over teammate Tom Carey. Quarterbacks were valuable bric-a-brac consigned only to directing the team.

"I'd like to play defense," Ralph complained. "Leahy won't let me."

This year he got his wish and has shown a knack for coming up with the big tackle or the key interception. He's a sturdy enough 180-pounder, but his one drawback is lack of speed. This he compensates with quick-thinking decisiveness. It's vital in a split-T quarterback who drifts behind the line and must make up his mind when he reaches the tackles whether he's going to pitch out or keep the ball and slant in.

He's now doing the things they first expected of him when he came to Notre Dame as a freshman in 1951 and by late season had become a varsity regular and star of the Southern California game.

As a high schooler he was all-Ohio and won 10 letters in football, basketball and baseball. So how did he escape the net sent out by home town Ohio State?

"It beats me," he answered flippantly.

It also beats a lot of the teams that have to play Notre Dame.

Earl Sande, at 52 Rides First Horse Since 1932 Season

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The little guy with only a few grey hairs left on his balding head was pleased with himself and so he's going back into action today at Belmont Park.

Earl Sande — the "Handy Guy" himself—the kinks shaken out of his 54-year-old legs will take C. V. Whitney's 2-year-old Blue Skies postward in the seventh race.

The Earl rode his first race since 1932 yesterday and finished third on Honest Bread in the third race at Belmont. He was only two length off the pace. But his horse tired and First Copy won it, followed him by Capeador.

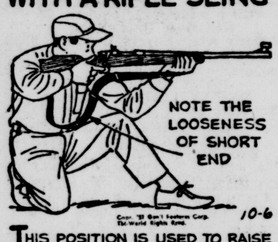

"I get a little tired, and the horse tired, too," he said happily after the race while wiping his brow "but we didn't dissolve the partnership."

He won $25 for the effort, but the sound of the flying hooves must have been worth more to him than the money. He was as happy and nervous as a schoolboy.

"I was so nervous I didn't know whether I had a saddle or not," replied Sande—the same saddlesmith who rode immortals like Man O' War, Zev and Gallant Fox to some of their greatest victories.

Play Marks First Meeting of PFO

New Paltz, Oct. 3 — Scattered Showers, a one-act play about the handling of five-year-olds, was performed by Marjorie Green, Edythe Abrams and Helen Redfern at the opening all-school meeting of the Parent-Faculty Organization Wednesday night in the auditorium of the State Teachers College.

The play was directed by Marjorie Green, assisted by Vera Irwin.

The actresses portrayed three distinctly different types of mother—the relaxed, imaginative and somewhat permissive one whose experience with two older offsprings had taught her that her love for her children would show her the best way to deal with crisis as they arose; the confused and nervous woman who had memorized the books on child guidance in an effort to avoid making her child as fearful as she was and the unyielding domineering mother with the heavy hand whose son was going to obey instantly, or else.

The encounter of these three and the interaction of the differing philosophies was entirely credible, carrying the audience with it at every step. The audience's pleased recognition of the typical small problems in the story was as evident as its concern when the imaginary children were adrift in the imaginary boat on the imaginary river and its audible relief when the calm mother thought of a solution and was able to get her child to work it out, thus saving the lives of the other two.

Following the performance, Dr. Eugene Link commented briefly on several questions that the play brings to mind for teacher and parent alike.

At the brief business session preceding the play the membership of the PFO, 300 strong, passed a motion to give each classroom teacher of the Campus Elementary School a petty-cash fund of $3, heard the resolution read by Mrs. Clarkson in favor of turning the village reservoir into a recreation area for the town, and listened to a report on the State Teacher College Family Life Institute that Mrs. Robert Lang had attended in June as the PFO delegate.

Refreshments were served after the meeting while the parents met their children's teachers. The following mothers of eighth-grade pupils provided cakes: the Mmes. Ralph Hunter, A. S. Kerr, John Vett, Albert Rohe, John Shand, Wilson, Melvin Richards, Jack Cotton, Lewis Wendover, Alphonse Hey, Ernest Tamney, and Miss Georgia Crans. Mrs. Donald Allen and Mrs. Willard Hogan were in charge of the refreshments.

Corsages for the women teachers were made by the resource committee with Mrs. John Jacobson, chairman; Mrs. Harold Elsbree, Mrs. George Langwick and Mrs. George Bishop.

vice-chairman, introduced the room representatives and the teachers, assisted by Edgar Klugman.

Sheffield Nasser moderated a panel of speakers each of whom had suggestions for the representatives. Mrs. Keith Smiley characterized a good first-level meeting; Mrs. Xan Green told some of the things that a room representative can do to make the year's activities go smoothly for teacher and parents; and Miss Alma Bent suggested ways in which she felt the teachers really needed the help of a representative of the parents of their classes.

156th Battalion Has Commendation for Excellence in Field

The 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, has received a commendation from Maj. Gen. Ronald C. Brock, commanding general of the 27th Infantry Division, for excellence in the field training period recently completed at Camp Drum.

Brock himself was commended by Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, commanding general of the New York National Guard and chief of staff to Governor Dewey, for "outstanding accomplishments" during the training tests.

Hausauer pointed out in a communication to Brock that camp attendance by the 27th Infantry Division averaged 98.5 per cent, a new record for all other divisions. The highest previous attendance of a division was 97.6 per cent.

Ratings Stand Out

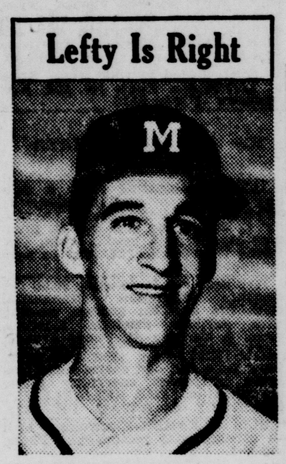

Hausauer also remarked on the "manner of performance" which had been the subject of "consistently favorable comment" from the representatives of the Army Field Forces and the National Guard Bureau. "In fact, the individual ratings of the units of your command are uniformly excellent or superior."

Hausauer commended the division for its movement to and from Camp Drum by motor convoy without serious accidents involving injury to personnel or damage to government property.

"These accomplishments are indicative of a high degree of leadership and professional ability supplemented by an outstanding esprit de corps. It is requested that you transmit these sentiments to the members of your command."

Earl Sande, at 52 Rides First Horse Since 1932 Season

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The little guy with only a few grey hairs left on his balding head was pleased with himself and so he's going back into action today at Belmont Park.

Earl Sande — the "Handy Guy" himself—the kinks shaken out of his 54-year-old legs will take C. V. Whitney's 2-year-old Blue Skies postward in the seventh race.

The Earl rode his first race since 1932 yesterday and finished third on Honest Bread in the third race at Belmont. He was only two length off the pace. But his horse tired and First Copy won it, followed him by Capeador.

"I get a little tired, and the horse tired, too," he said happily after the race while wiping his brow "but we didn't dissolve the partnership."

He won $25 for the effort, but the sound of the flying hooves must have been worth more to him than the money. He was as happy and nervous as a schoolboy.

"I was so nervous I didn't know whether I had a saddle or not," replied Sande—the same saddlesmith who rode immortals like Man O' War, Zev and Gallant Fox to some of their greatest victories.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

Play Marks First Meeting of PFO

New Paltz, Oct. 3 — Scattered Showers, a one-act play about the handling of five-year-olds, was performed by Marjorie Green, Edythe Abrams and Helen Redfern at the opening all-school meeting of the Parent-Faculty Organization Wednesday night in the auditorium of the State Teachers College.

The play was directed by Marjorie Green, assisted by Vera Irwin.

The actresses portrayed three distinctly different types of mother—the relaxed, imaginative and somewhat permissive one whose experience with two older offsprings had taught her that her love for her children would show her the best way to deal with crisis as they arose; the confused and nervous woman who had memorized the books on child guidance in an effort to avoid making her child as fearful as she was and the unyielding domineering mother with the heavy hand whose son was going to obey instantly, or else.

The encounter of these three and the interaction of the differing philosophies was entirely credible, carrying the audience with it at every step. The audience's pleased recognition of the typical small problems in the story was as evident as its concern when the imaginary children were adrift in the imaginary boat on the imaginary river and its audible relief when the calm mother thought of a solution and was able to get her child to work it out, thus saving the lives of the other two.

Following the performance, Dr. Eugene Link commented briefly on several questions that the play brings to mind for teacher and parent alike.

At the brief business session preceding the play the membership of the PFO, 300 strong, passed a motion to give each classroom teacher of the Campus Elementary School a petty-cash fund of $3, heard the resolution read by Mrs. Clarkson in favor of turning the village reservoir into a recreation area for the town, and listened to a report on the State Teacher College Family Life Institute that Mrs. Robert Lang had attended in June as the PFO delegate.

Refreshments were served after the meeting while the parents met their children's teachers. The following mothers of eighth-grade pupils provided cakes: the Mmes. Ralph Hunter, A. S. Kerr, John Vett, Albert Rohe, John Shand, Wilson, Melvin Richards, Jack Cotton, Lewis Wendover, Alphonse Hey, Ernest Tamney, and Miss Georgia Crans. Mrs. Donald Allen and Mrs. Willard Hogan were in charge of the refreshments.

Corsages for the women teachers were made by the resource committee with Mrs. John Jacobson, chairman; Mrs. Harold Elsbree, Mrs. George Langwick and Mrs. George Bishop.

Campus Corner

Music News

Children in the Campus School will again have the opportunity of studying orchestral instruments during the regular school day. Free lessons on the following instruments will be available for beginning and advanced pupils: violin, 'cello, flute, clarinet, trumpet, and trombone. These instruments may be rented or purchased from the New Paltz Central High School through the Campus School. Further information may be had from Mr. Ottesen at the Campus School.

Workshop

A meeting to introduce this year's room representatives to the faculty and to help them in their new duties was held in the school cafeteria Sept. 11. Mrs. Albert S. Kerr, chairman of the Parent-Faculty Organization, introduced the members of her executive board. Mrs. Robert Pyle, second vice-chairman, introduced the room representatives and the teachers, assisted by Edgar Klugman.

Sheffield Nasser moderated a panel of speakers each of whom had suggestions for the representatives. Mrs. Keith Smiley characterized a good first-level meeting; Mrs. Xan Green told some of the things that a room representative can do to make the year's activities go smoothly for teacher and parents; and Miss Alma Bent suggested ways in which she felt the teachers really needed the help of a representative of the parents of their classes.

156th Battalion Has Commendation for Excellence in Field

The 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, has received a commendation from Maj. Gen. Ronald C. Brock, commanding general of the 27th Infantry Division, for excellence in the field training period recently completed at Camp Drum.

Brock himself was commended by Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, commanding general of the New York National Guard and chief of staff to Governor Dewey, for "outstanding accomplishments" during the training tests.

Hausauer pointed out in a communication to Brock that camp attendance by the 27th Infantry Division averaged 98.5 per cent, a new record for all other divisions. The highest previous attendance of a division was 97.6 per cent.

Ratings Stand Out

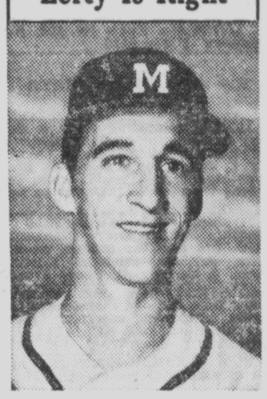

Hausauer also remarked on the "manner of performance" which had been the subject of "consistently favorable comment" from the representatives of the Army Field Forces and the National Guard Bureau. "In fact, the individual ratings of the units of your command are uniformly excellent or superior."

Hausauer commended the division for its movement to and from Camp Drum by motor convoy without serious accidents involving injury to personnel or damage to government property.

"These accomplishments are indicative of a high degree of leadership and professional ability supplemented by an outstanding esprit de corps. It is requested that you transmit these sentiments to the members of your command."

sa, said of Wicks that "until he is accused with substantial evidence of wrongdoing, I would see no point in his resigning."

Ability, Integrity Praised

Sen. Wheeler Milmoe, Canastota, commented:

"Mr. Wicks is entitled to an opportunity to make a full explanation. I have served in the legislature with him for 20 years and have always respected him for his ability and integrity."

Sen. Bernard Tompkins, New York, said he saw no evidence of irregularity in Wicks' visits and while "he may have been ill advised" there was "nothing so far to Sen. Wicks discredit to the point of asking him to resign."

Sen. John H. Cooke, Alden, said he believed from what he had read in the newspapers that Wicks should retain both jobs "for the time being. I have nothing but the highest regard for Arthur."

Sen. Harry K. Morton, Hornell, expressed "great confidence" in Wicks but did not comment specifically on the resignation question.

Typical of those who were noncommital, Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo, second ranking member of the Upper House, said:

"Before passing judgment or making any comment, I should like to know more of the facts."

Sen. John H. Hughes, Syracuse, said "I would want to talk with Sen. Wicks about this matter and find out what the situation is before making any comment."

In a statement last night, Robert F. Wagner, Jr., Manhattan borough president and New York Democratic mayoralty candidate, also proposed that the lawmakers investigate "the entire racing situation" in the state.

Wagner declared: "It is obvious that the Republican state administration is seeking to shield close friends and political associates who are inolved in the current shocking scandals and is withholding from the people information to which they are entitled."

Lashed Back at Wagner

Earlier, Wicks had lashed back at demands by Wagner and Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, for his resignation following the disclosure that he had visited Joseph (Joey) Fay, labor extortionist, in Sing Sing Prison.

Wicks, Senate majority leader and chairman of the joint legislative committee on horse racing, declared "I shall not resign any position I now hold."

Prayer Meeting

A cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Monroe Burger, 3 Clifton avenue, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 8, in preparation for the evangelistic preaching mission which will begin November 6. The public is invited.

Heads Company

KENNETH BUSHEY

Kenneth Bushey of Bloomington was recently appointed vice-president in charge of the new Kingston division of the Mid-Hudson Filter Queen Corp., of Poughkeepsie. Local offices are located at 288 Wall street. The concern deals with help to sufferers of sinus, asthma, hay fever, dust allergy and other respiratory diseases.

Clerk Is Freed

Yonkers, Oct. 6 (AP)—Department store clerk Michael Attamanchuck, 25, left Yonkers City Court a free man yesterday after a charge that he stole $6,900 from his employer was withdrawn. The grand larceny charge was dropped after City Judge Albert L. Fiorillo heard testimony that all the money had been returned. A warrant for Attamanchuck's arrest was issued on Sept. 28 when the store discovered he had not made the Saturday night bank deposit two days before and had disappeared from his home. Attamanchuck surrendered to police the following Friday and turned back the two locked money bags still unopened, which he was supposed to have placed in the bank's night depository.

Mau Maus Kill Nine

Nairobi, Kenya, Oct. 6 (AP)—Women Mau Mau terrorists strangled the wife of a loyal Kikuyu guard last night while other Mau Mau hacked her four children to death, authorities in this British East African colony reported. The raid in the Fort Hall Reserve claimed the lives of three loyal Kikuyu tribesmen, one woman and five children. The Mau Mau is made up mostly of Kikuyu tribesmen who have taken a blood oath to drive the white men out of Kenya. Last night's raid was the latest in a series of stepped up activity by the Mau Mau.

Lee Is Named

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower today chose Robert E. Lee, Washington, D. C., Republican, to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Upon Senate confirmation, Lee's appointment will round out the full membership of the seven-man commission and give Republicans a 4-3 majority. Lee, 41, will replace Paul A. Walker, Oklahoma Democrat, whose term expired July 1. The terms run for seven years.

Eisenhower Calls

respond to the legitimate aspirations and hopes of all peoples.

Must Arrange Trade

"We must arrange trade systems that will provide each with the necessaries of life and opportunity for self-advancement.

"We must seek to understand and resolve age-old prejudices, ambitions and hatreds that scar great parts of the whole world.

"We must provide machinery and techniques to encourage that peaceful communication and mutual confidence which alone can finally lift the burden of arms from the backs of men."

Eisenhower made the address an occasion too for restating some of his domestic aims.

He called on citizens to strive that their communities may be able to say there are no slums and "here there is true equality of opportunity."

On Schools, Libraries, Clergy

He touched also on the subject of schools, libraries and the clergy—matters that have been much in the news through congressional investigations.

The President said citizens should strive so that they and their neighbors can say:

"Here our teachers, loyal citizens of their free country, enjoy true freedom of thought, untrammelled by political fashion or expediency.

"Here our libraries contain everything that can add to man's enlightenment and understanding—respecting common decency but disdaining any other censorship.

"Her our ministers and Sunday school teachers command the respect that they so justly earn in teaching our sons and our daughters the love of God."

When Eisenhower spoke of the threat of atomic war, and "weapons of inconceivable power," he observed that long-range planes could bring it to American homes.

Must Pay Taxes

Moscow, Oct. 6 (AP)—The five U. S. news correspondents in Moscow were notified today that they henceforth must pay Soviet income taxes. "Since Soviet correspondents are being taxed in the United States, we consider it a matter of reciprocity that you now also pay the Soviet rate," said Leonid F. Ilychev, chief of the press department of the foreign ministry. Ilychev said the question of lifting the Soviet censorship was not being considered in the reciprocity move. (Russian correspondents in the United States are free to file any news they wish, but U. S. correspondents in the Soviet Union must submit all copy to censorship).

Battle Is Reported

Berlin, Oct. 6 (AP)—The U. S. high commission newspaper Neue Zeitung reported today that Russian military police fought a gun battle several days ago in East Germany with deserters from a Soviet tank unit trying to escape transfer back to Russia. The paper said three Russian soldiers were killed in the shooting. It did not say whether the dead were deserters or MP's.

To Defend Crown

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba will defend his crown against Johnny Bratton of Chicago on Friday, Nov. 6, promoter Jim Norris said today. The site will be announced in a few days with either New York or Chicago getting the 15-rounder.

we're having in the Korean affair."

In the past Knowland has not always agreed fully witth the administration foreign affairs. He once said President Syngman Rhee of South Korea had not been sufficiently consulted while the truce was being worked out. He once denounced the proposed truce terms, but later urged Rhee not to obstruct an armistice.

And in a summary of the administration's accomplishments, he put the Korean truce at the top of his list.

At his news conference yesterday, Knowland said that if the Soviets were offered a non-aggression pact without conditions, the action would be tantamount to freezing the satellites within the iron curtain.

"Unless the Soviet would allow free elections in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, it would be a mistake to enter into the type of pact suggested by Adlai Stevenson," he said.

When she became queen, Marie Antoinette incurred the wrath of the French people because she refused to let them watch her eat. Frenchmen believed this pleasure was their inalienable right, as they long had enjoyed the custom of watching the king and royal family partake of meals.

charge, supported by substantial evidence, I would see no reason why he should resign.

"It seems to be a very strange thing for Mr. Dewey to start trying Mr. Wicks in the newspapers. If the Governor has some real charge, he should bring it in the proper way and through proper trial instead of trying him by inference in the newspapers."

Killed in Train Mishap

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—An unidentified man about 50 years old was killed at 1 a. m. today when he was struck by a New York Central White Plains local train near Webster avenue and 226th street, the Bronx. Police said that Engineer Oscar Swarm said he sounded the train's whistle and applied the brakes as the headlight picked out the man on the tracks, but he was unable to stop the train in time. The body was removed to Fordham Hospital morgue. The train was delayed about 20 minutes.

Stirring more mystery about the quiet efforts of the family to get their son back was a visit to the home last night by President Eisenhower's banker-brother.

Arthur B. Eisenhower spent 15 minutes at the home. As he left he told newsmen he could give them no information. He declined to say whether Ledterman was in the house. Earlier in the day a nurse at the home said she hadn't seen Ledterman around yesterday.

Last week when Joseph Williams, president of the Commerce Trust Co., visited the home the father said he had made arrangements to get the money day or night to meet ransom demands. Eisenhower is executive vice president of the same bank.

Why We Say--

YANKEE

The nickname Yankee is derived from a joke by the Indians. It comes from "yonokie," an Indian word which meant "silent." The name was applied by the Indians in reverse of what they really thought. The white men seemed so talkative to them in contrast to their own people, that they named him "yonokie" as a jest.

Typical of those who were noncommital, Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Buffalo, second ranking member of the Upper House, said:

"Before passing judgment or making any comment, I should like to know more of the facts."

Sen. John H. Hughes, Syracuse, said "I would want to talk with Sen. Wicks about this matter and find out what the situation is before making any comment."

In a statement last night, Robert F. Wagner, Jr., Manhattan borough president and New York Democratic mayoralty candidate, also proposed that the lawmakers investigate "the entire racing situation" in the state.

Wagner declared: "It is obvious that the Republican state administration is seeking to shield close friends and political associates who are inolved in the current shocking scandals and is withholding from the people information to which they are entitled."

Lashed Back at Wagner

Earlier, Wicks had lashed back at demands by Wagner and Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, for his resignation following the disclosure that he had visited Joseph (Joey) Fay, labor extortionist, in Sing Sing Prison.

Wicks, Senate majority leader and chairman of the joint legislative committee on horse racing, declared "I shall not resign any position I now hold."

Prayer Meeting

A cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Monroe Burger, 3 Clifton avenue, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 8, in preparation for the evangelistic preaching mission which will begin November 6. The public is invited.

Heads Company

KENNETH BUSHEY

Kenneth Bushey of Bloomington was recently appointed vice-president in charge of the new Kingston division of the Mid-Hudson Filter Queen Corp., of Poughkeepsie. Local offices are located at 288 Wall street. The concern deals with help to sufferers of sinus, asthma, hay fever, dust allergy and other respiratory diseases.

Clerk Is Freed

Yonkers, Oct. 6 (AP)—Department store clerk Michael Attamanchuck, 25, left Yonkers City Court a free man yesterday after a charge that he stole $6,900 from his employer was withdrawn. The grand larceny charge was dropped after City Judge Albert L. Fiorillo heard testimony that all the money had been returned. A warrant for Attamanchuck's arrest was issued on Sept. 28 when the store discovered he had not made the Saturday night bank deposit two days before and had disappeared from his home. Attamanchuck surrendered to police the following Friday and turned back the two locked money bags still unopened, which he was supposed to have placed in the bank's night depository.

Mau Maus Kill Nine

Nairobi, Kenya, Oct. 6 (AP)—Women Mau Mau terrorists strangled the wife of a loyal Kikuyu guard last night while other Mau Mau hacked her four children to death, authorities in this British East African colony reported. The raid in the Fort Hall Reserve claimed the lives of three loyal Kikuyu tribesmen, one woman and five children. The Mau Mau is made up mostly of Kikuyu tribesmen who have taken a blood oath to drive the white men out of Kenya. Last night's raid was the latest in a series of stepped up activity by the Mau Mau.

Lee Is Named

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower today chose Robert E. Lee, Washington, D. C., Republican, to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Upon Senate confirmation, Lee's appointment will round out the full membership of the seven-man commission and give Republicans a 4-3 majority. Lee, 41, will replace Paul A. Walker, Oklahoma Democrat, whose term expired July 1. The terms run for seven years.

Eisenhower Calls

respond to the legitimate aspirations and hopes of all peoples.

Must Arrange Trade

"We must arrange trade systems that will provide each with the necessaries of life and opportunity for self-advancement.

"We must seek to understand and resolve age-old prejudices, ambitions and hatreds that scar great parts of the whole world.

"We must provide machinery and techniques to encourage that peaceful communication and mutual confidence which alone can finally lift the burden of arms from the backs of men."

Eisenhower made the address an occasion too for restating some of his domestic aims.

He called on citizens to strive that their communities may be able to say there are no slums and "here there is true equality of opportunity."

On Schools, Libraries, Clergy

He touched also on the subject of schools, libraries and the clergy—matters that have been much in the news through congressional investigations.

The President said citizens should strive so that they and their neighbors can say:

"Here our teachers, loyal citizens of their free country, enjoy true freedom of thought, untrammelled by political fashion or expediency.

"Here our libraries contain everything that can add to man's enlightenment and understanding—respecting common decency but disdaining any other censorship.

"Her our ministers and Sunday school teachers command the respect that they so justly earn in teaching our sons and our daughters the love of God."

When Eisenhower spoke of the threat of atomic war, and "weapons of inconceivable power," he observed that long-range planes could bring it to American homes.

Must Pay Taxes

Moscow, Oct. 6 (AP)—The five U. S. news correspondents in Moscow were notified today that they henceforth must pay Soviet income taxes. "Since Soviet correspondents are being taxed in the United States, we consider it a matter of reciprocity that you now also pay the Soviet rate," said Leonid F. Ilychev, chief of the press department of the foreign ministry. Ilychev said the question of lifting the Soviet censorship was not being considered in the reciprocity move. (Russian correspondents in the United States are free to file any news they wish, but U. S. correspondents in the Soviet Union must submit all copy to censorship).

Battle Is Reported

Berlin, Oct. 6 (AP)—The U. S. high commission newspaper Neue Zeitung reported today that Russian military police fought a gun battle several days ago in East Germany with deserters from a Soviet tank unit trying to escape transfer back to Russia. The paper said three Russian soldiers were killed in the shooting. It did not say whether the dead were deserters or MP's.

To Defend Crown

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba will defend his crown against Johnny Bratton of Chicago on Friday, Nov. 6, promoter Jim Norris said today. The site will be announced in a few days with either New York or Chicago getting the 15-rounder.

we're having in the Korean affair."

In the past Knowland has not always agreed fully with the administration foreign affairs. He once said President Syngman Rhee of South Korea had not been sufficiently consulted while the truce was being worked out. He once denounced the proposed truce terms, but later urged Rhee not to obstruct an armistice.

And in a summary of the administration's accomplishments, he put the Korean truce at the top of his list.

At his news conference yesterday, Knowland said that if the Soviets were offered a non-aggression pact without conditions, the action would be tantamount to freezing the satellites within the iron curtain.

"Unless the Soviet would allow free elections in East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, it would be a mistake to enter into the type of pact suggested by Adlai Stevenson," he said.

"It seems to be a very strange thing for Mr. Dewey to start trying Mr. Wicks in the newspapers. If the Governor has some real charge, he should bring it in the proper way and through proper trial instead of trying him by inference in the newspapers."

Killed in Train Mishap

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—An unidentified man about 50 years old was killed at 1 a. m. today when he was struck by a New York Central White Plains local train near Webster avenue and 226th street, the Bronx. Police said that Engineer Oscar Swarm said he sounded the train's whistle and applied the brakes as the headlight picked out the man on the tracks, but he was unable to stop the train in time. The body was removed to Fordham Hospital morgue. The train was delayed about 20 minutes.

Stirring more mystery about the quiet efforts of the family to get their son back was a visit to the home last night by President Eisenhower's banker-brother.

Arthur B. Eisenhower spent 15 minutes at the home. As he left he told newsmen he could give them no information. He declined to say whether Ledterman was in the house. Earlier in the day a nurse at the home said she hadn't seen Ledterman around yesterday.

Last week when Joseph Williams, president of the Commerce Trust Co., visited the home the father said he had made arrangements to get the money day or night to meet ransom demands. Eisenhower is executive vice president of the same bank.

Head injury is the commonest single cause of death in traffic accidents, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Why We Say--

YANKEE

The nickname Yankee is derived from a joke by the Indians. It comes from "yonokie," an Indian word which meant "silent." The name was applied by the Indians in reverse of what they really thought. The white men seemed so talkative to them in contrast to their own people, that they named him "yonokie" as a jest.

Motor Sail Boat Still Aground at Saugerties

A motor sailboat which ran aground off Saugerties late Saturday night is resting above the water line on rocks and pilings near the Old Long Dock and efforts on Monday to free the craft were unsuccessful.

At the Coast Guard light station at Saugerties, it was indicated this morning that it will be up to the owner whether he wishes to hire the necessary equipment to float or salvage the craft. He apparently has returned to Albany and was not seen on Monday when Coast Guard officials checked to see if the boat could be freed. State police said the owner was Robert Strickland of Washington avenue, Albany.

Nixon Starts His 38,000-Mile Trip

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Vice President Nixon started a 38,000-mile trip early today as President Eisenhower's personal emissary to Far Eastern leaders.

Nixon got final instructions at the White House a few hours before starting on the first leg of his 72-day journey, a flight from Washington to San Francisco.

He said President Eisenhower gave him not only general instructions, but both written and verbal messages for the 18 heads of government and the other dignitaries with whom he is to confer on "all the great problems which confront the free nations."

Nixon's party of eight, including Mrs. Nixon, Brig. Gen. Paul W. Caraway, military aide, Philip H. Watts of the State Department and assistants, are traveling aboard a specially equipped Constellation. They leave tomorrow for Honolulu and a three-day stopover, then continue to New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Malaya, Thailand, Indochina, Hong Kong, Formosa, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Burma, Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Libya.

Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.), who just completed a world tour, accompanied Nixon to San Francisco to give him his observations.

Nixon took off for California shortly after midnight.

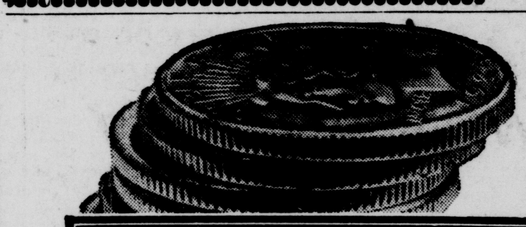

Chief Justice Earl Warren concluded the busy day on which he took office by going to the airport to see the vice president and his party off. He and Mrs. Warren shook hands with Nixon and wished him success, as did the ambassadors from several of the countries he will visit.

Arundel, England, Oct. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Edward Ashmore, the man who devised the balloon barrage put up against German bombers over Britain during two world wars, died at his home here yesterday. He was 81. Ashmore was also credited with founding the observer corps, the body of civilian volunteers who ringed Britain's coasts night and day to give warning when enemy planes approached.

Motor Sail Boat Still Aground at Saugerties

A motor sailboat which ran aground off Saugerties late Saturday night is resting above the water line on rocks and pilings near the Old Long Dock and efforts on Monday to free the craft were unsuccessful.

At the Coast Guard light station at Saugerties, it was indicated this morning that it will be up to the owner whether he wishes to hire the necessary equipment to float or salvage the craft. Invitations have also been extended to fire and CD authorities from Greene, Dutchess, Orange and Sullivan counties. There will be no admission charge.

Chief Johnstone, returning to England after speaking at firemanic conferences in Buffalo and Toronto, agreed to stop off at Kingston after arrangements were made by Arthur C. Nixon Starts His 38,000-Mile Trip

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Vice President Nixon started a 38,000-mile trip early today as President Eisenhower's personal emissary to Far Eastern leaders.

Nixon got final instructions at the White House a few hours before starting on the first leg of his 72-day journey, a flight from Washington to San Francisco.

He said President Eisenhower gave him not only general instructions, but both written and verbal messages for the 18 heads of government and the other dignitaries with whom he is to confer on "all the great problems which confront the free nations."

Nixon's party of eight, including Mrs. Nixon, Brig. Gen. Paul W. Caraway, military aide, Philip H. Watts of the State Department and assistants, are traveling aboard a specially equipped Constellation. They leave tomorrow for Honolulu and a three-day stopover, then continue to New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Malaya, Thailand, Indochina, Hong Kong, Formosa, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Burma, Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Libya.

Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.), who just completed a world tour, accompanied Nixon to San Francisco to give him his observations.

Nixon took off for California shortly after midnight.

Chief Justice Earl Warren concluded the busy day on which he took office by going to the airport to see the vice president and his party off. He and Mrs. Warren shook hands with Nixon and wished him success, as did the ambassadors from several of the countries he will visit.
